HOUSE ADVANCES WATERWAYS BILL TO THIRD READING

Administration Members Defeat Opposition in Test Roll Call on Adjournment.

FINAL FIGHT COMES TODAY

Friends of Measure Expect to Line Up the Required 77 Supporters to Enact It.

SULLIVAN MEN MAY GIVE AID

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The administration deep waterway bill, authorizing the expenditure of $500,000 for the purchase of the water power sites along the Lockport-Utica stretch, went past second reading in the house this evening, exactly as it had been passed by the senate. It will be called up for passage at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by the terms of a motion made by Representative Noble B. Judah in charge of the measure.

It is a question whether the constitutionally required total of 77 votes will be registered for the bill on third reading. For the first time in the present session Speaker Adkins and the house organization were defeated by the administration supporters and the remnant of the old band of hope.

There was one test vote, coming upon a motion of Representative Holaday, chairman of the house judiciary committee and a close lieutenant of Speaker Adkins, on a technical matter of adjournment. The administration people mustered 54 votes, of which 45 were Republicans, as against 51 votes furnished by a coalition of the Lorimer-Shurtleff Republicans, the Democrats who accept the Alschuler-Lee O'Neil Browne leadership, and a squad of Republicans who have been with the administration in most matters excepting the deep waterway proposition.

The notable absentees were the Sullivan Democrats from Chicago. It is known that the administration side fully expects the Democrats who are in touch with National Committeeman Sullivan and the state Democratic organization to support the bill when it comes along for passage.

Decisive Fight Comes Today.

It was the object of Mr. Judah, in forcing a recess until 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, which was the outcome of the parliamentary scrap over adjournment, to postpone the final showdown until the arrival of the afternoon trains from Chicago.

Former Speaker Edward D. Shurtleff led the fight on the floor for the opposition to the governor. He was seconded by Representatives Chiperfield and Shanahan.

The defeated members were not downhearted tonight, however. They declare not more than 65 votes can be lined up for the bill tomorrow. Many of them intend to go home tonight and leave the field open to the governor's lieutenants, in the confident hope that the necessary 77 will not be rounded up.

It was this policy that permitted the Johnson bill to be reported out of the deep waterway committee without opposition. Representative Edward J. Smejkal, as had been arranged last night after a careful count of noses, called a meeting of his committee immediately after the house had met at 10 o'clock and adjourned. There was a motion that the Johnson bill be reported out with the recommendation that it be not passed.

Amendments were inserted by the committee and the idea of putting in a referendum clause was abandoned when it was discovered that with such an appendage the house

COMMISSION'S REPORT IN

Favors Immediate Work on Section to Supplant Elevated; Cost $12,000,000.

MERGER SCHEME ALSO ADVANCED

Plans for a passenger subway system in downtown Chicago are ready for consideration by members of the city council. This announcement, made yesterday afternoon, coupled with the offer to open negotiations for the merger of all elevated and surface lines made to the council Monday night, indicate that Chicago is now clearly on the way toward improved transportation.

The plans prepared by hte city's subway commission were approved by Mayor Harrison at a conference in his office yesterday afternoon. After the conference Ald. Peter Reinberg, chairman of the local transportation committee, announced he would call a public hearing for next Tuesday afternoon, at which time the plans will be submitted to the aldermen.

The proposed consolidation of the elevated and surface lines will be discussed at a meeting of the committee, which will probably be held tomorrow morning.

Henry A. Blair, Ira M. Cobe, and Samuel Insull, the three men who played an important part in the recent consolidation of the elevated lines, will explain to the committee the plans for the greater merger scheme.

"L" Trains First in Tunnel.

Two plans for subway systems will be submitted to the aldermen by the commission. The first, the construction of which will be urged immediately by the commission, provides for a system for use only by the trains from the elevated lines. Construction of a system in accordance with this plan would mean the elimination of the "loop."

A second or supplemental plan provides for the construction of a system which will be used by the surface cars. Construction of the system outlined in this second plan will be recommended as a later step. Connection of the two systems is proposed when both are constructed.

The system outlined in the first plan would cost approximately $12,000,000. The placing of all elevated railroad trains underground and the establishment of through routes will be accomplished if this plan is approved and the system constructed.

Routes Proposed for Subway.

The north and south routes of the proposed subway are State and Dearborn streets. The east and west routes are Lake and Harrison streets. The subway begins at Thirteenth street on the south, North Water street on the north, and Desplaines street on the west.

Under the first proposed plan trains would run as follows:

From the south side, enter the subway at Thirteenth and State streets, run north in State street to Lake, west underground to Desplaines street, then up to the elevated structure to Oak Park.

From the north side, enter the subway at North Water and Dearborn streets, run south in Dearborn to Harrison and then west to Desplaines, thence on the elevated structure and to all branches of the Metropolitan system.

By running the trains from the north and south sides to the west side the engineers plan to eliminate objectionable features of the loop system and establish more rapid service. Small loops also are planned at each entrance to the subway. It is proposed to run local trains to the subway entrances and then transfer passengers to the express trains, which will be the only trains running through the subway.

From Curb to Curb Only.

The commission has decided to advocate the construction of the subway from curb to curb rather than from building line to building line. This will mean that subsidewalk space will not be used by the city.

The system planned is a double track system and singled decked. Two tracks in State street are proposed to begin with, but later when a system is built for use of surface cars four tracks will run under that wide thoroughfare.

Transfer stations are planned at Madison and Adams streets, in both State and Dearborn streets. Connection between the State and the Dearborn street subways is planned in the shape of arcades a block long on both Madison and Adams streets. Probably only four other stations will be recommended on the subway—two in Lake and two in Harrison streets.

The plans will be explained to the aldermen by the commission, which consists of John Ericson, E. C. Shankland, and J. J. Reynolds. Members of the commission would not discuss the plans yesterday.

Mayor Harrison Sees Solution.

Mayor Harrison stated his views on the subway problem briefly.

"The solution of the question," said the mayor, "is the through routing of the elevated lines through a subway downtown and the using of the surface lines for feeders to the elevated lines and as short haul lines. Of course there should be universal transferring between the various lines."

The subway engineers estimate a subway, built after their first plan, can be constructed in three years.

The city's ever increasing traction fund will supply all the money needed for the construction of the system, according to the engineers.

"We will simply submit our plans to the aldermen next Tuesday," said City Engineer Ericson last night. "We will discuss principally the first plan, as that embodies what we believe should be the first step in passenger subway construction."

WOMAN PHYSICIAN MURDERED IN BED

Doctor, Former State Bacteriologist, Found Slain in Indianapolis, Ind.

CAN TRACE NO MOTIVE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 24.—Dr. Helene Knabe, former state bacteriologist, was found in bed today with her head almost severed by the slash of a knife. How she came to her death remained tonight a mystery to the police.

Jefferson Haynes, the negro janitor of the apartment house where Dr. Knabe lived, was detained for a few hours on suspicion that he knew something of the circumstances of her death, but the detectives released him after he had withstood all their attempts to draw incriminating information. They were in the dark, they said, as to last night's tragic incidents in Dr. Knabe's flat.

The theory of suicide, put aside earlier in the day, was revived tonight, but the police declared the evidence tended to indicate murder. The knife with which Dr. Knabe was killed has not been found.

Police Scout Suicide Theory.

The police are of the opinion that if she herself had gashed her throat she would not have had the strength to hide the knife and then return to her bed.

Further, there were no blood stains on the floor of her bedroom save where blood had trickled from the wound across the bed and dripped on the floor.

The blow dealt was a powerful one, for the knife passed through the muscular tissue and was only stopped by the upper vertebræ. On one of Dr. Knabe's arms was a slight wound and blood was smeared on her left leg.

Haynes, the janitor, who had known Dr. Knabe for years, told the police that he went to bed in his room in the basement of the apartment house at 11 o'clock last night. Dr. Knabe's apartment was just above, on the first floor of the building.

Janitor Tells of Scream.

Haynes was awakened in the night, he said, by three screams, apparently in Dr. Knabe's flat, but he slipped off to sleep again without investigating. At 5 o'clock this morning, he added, he heard footsteps in the room above him.

Dr. Knabe's flat was in a corner of the building and its windows opened on two streets. None of these windows was locked, and several of them were open last night. There is only one outside door and it leads into the front hall.

In the kitchen is a dumb waiter with a shaft large enough to permit a man to climb into the kitchen by means of a ladder. This shaft opens at the bottom into the basement near the room of Haynes.

The janitor's daughter slept in a room next to his and his housekeeper in a nearby chamber. The women said they heard no noise overhead last night. The family living in the apartment above Dr. Knabe's also said they heard neither screams nor any other sound from Dr. Knabe's rooms.

Woman Assistant Finds Body.

It was 8:15 o'clock this morning when Katherine McPherson, Dr. Knabe's assistant, entered the apartment and found her dead. The body lay prone on its back, the arms outstretched. The night dress was disarranged and across the breast was a pillow. There were only slight signs of a struggle.

Miss McPherson called physicians. After an examination they agreed Dr. Knabe had been dead about six hours. The coroner stated that he could find no evidence that she had been assaulted. The police, summoned an hour after the dead body was found, were unable to discover that there had been a violent struggle in any of the rooms or that they had been robbed.

Motive for the murder puzzled detectives tonight. Dr. Knabe spent much time in study. She had told Miss McPherson last evening that she intended to read until late. She had a wide acquaintance, but no one was found today to say she had an intimate man friend.

Her resignation from the position of state bacteriologist was caused by the pressure of her private practice and her desire to study hygiene, said Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the Indiana board of health, under whom she worked in the state laboratory.

She was born in Germany, the daughter of a civil engineer in the German army. Coming to this country as a girl, by her own efforts she paid the expenses of her medical education.

DANISH MOB MENACES DR COOK; POLICE GUARD HIS RETREAT.

Alleged Discoverer of North Pole Is Driven from Lecture Platform by Jeers After Dr. Nansen Scores Him.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 24.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook's theatrical attempt tonight to vindicate his reputation by a lecture in the hall where two years ago he addressed the royal family and some of the most prominent people of Denmark under the auspices of the Geographical society, on the occasion of his triumphal entrance into the capital, resulted in extremely riotous scenes. Dr. Cook finally was compelled to retire ingloriously by way of a rear exit.

Fifteen hundred persons assembled in the hall tonight and a great crowd outside greeted Dr. Cook with an uproar of insulting cries. He was escorted by police, however, and no violence was attempted.

The lecture, illustrated by means of lantern slides, was almost a repetition of his former talk.

Dr. Nansen, the Danish explorer, who formerly supported Cook, started the trouble by loudly denouncing Cook as a pure swindler.

The climax was reached when an alleged picture of the north pole was thrown upon the screen. The audience was so hostile that Cook stopped his lecture and withdrew.

He was escorted through the side street to his hotel by a strong detachment of police.

The last heard was that a boiler tube on the Wilkes had exploded.

TRIBUNE CARTOON HITS NEAR MARK

KILLS WOMAN AND FLEES

John T. McCutcheon's cartoon entitled "How to Discourage Automobile Heartlessness," which appeared in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, offered a suggestion which a coroner's jury speedily appropriated. Albert T. Wilson, a chauffeur, was held to the grand jury yesterday afternoon to answer for the killing of a woman.

Mr. McCutcheon's picture depicted a judge sentencing two drivers of an automobile which had killed a man to fourteen years each in the penitentiary because of their "intentional and deliberate heartlessness" in running away while their victim lay dying on the street.

Verdict Copied After Cartoon.

Here is a comparison between McCutcheon's cartoon verdict and the actual return of yesterday's coroner's jury:

Cartoon Verdict.	Verdict of Coroner's Jury.
"The killing of this man may have been unintentional, as it doubtless was, but your action in running away and leaving him dying in the street was intentional, and it is for that deliberate heartlessness that I shall sentence you each to fourteen years in the penitentiary. Call the next case."	"We, the jury, believe that though the accident may have been unavoidable and the accident unintentional on the part of Wilson, that his actions subsequent to the accident, when he fled and was later seen transporting other patrons in his machine, were criminal and heartless. Therefore we, the jury, recommend that Albert T. Wilson be held to the grand jury."

Woman Was Killed Downtown.

The case in which the coroner's jury acted was that of Mrs. Anna Cascadin.

Mrs. Cascadin had come to Chicago, early in the morning of Oct. 15, alone. She started timidly to find relatives on the west side. At Jackson boulevard and Wabash avenue she stepped into the darkness under the elevated structure, was dazzled by an approaching auto headlight, struck, and killed.

The driver stopped his machine. Then as he saw pedestrians run toward the prostrate woman, he fled at high speed. Later in the morning he coolly drove a dinner party from the Hotel Sherman past the spot where he had killed Mrs. Cascadin.

This came out at the inquest yesterday. Somebody had caught Wilson's number and that is how his presence at the inquest was obtained. Under the direction of Deputy Coroner M. F. Hartney Wilson was put on the witness stand and questioned.

He admitted having driven away and having driven past the spot later. He said he was going only ten miles an hour.

"Wilson may consider himself fortunate," said Deputy Hartney last night, "that a coroner's jury has not the power to inflict punishment. Otherwise, the McCutcheon parallel might have been carried further."

STARTS VICE WAR; MAYOR IN FIGHT TO CLEAN UP CITY

Harrison First Orders M'Weeny to Close Everleigh Club and Keep It Shut.

CIVIL SERVICE BOARD ACTS

Asks Chief to Get Full List of Disorderly Houses as Aid to Control Vice.

STATE LABOR COMMISSION ASSISTS

HARRISON ASKS HELP.

Mayor Harrison yesterday made an appeal to all citizens of Chicago to assist him in suppressing vice in Chicago. He wants information as to disreputable flats. He will investigate all complaints and if results justify such action will procure the arrest of the occupants. The mayor said:

> Any information furnished me in this way will be treated confidentially and if I find there is ground for the suspicions they will be asked to remove. It is hard for the mayor's office, and even hard for the police, to get absolute information on this subject, but it can be obtained if residents of flat buildings and apartments all over the city will report to me when suspicious characters move into the same building with them. In this way I hope to clean up the residence districts first.

A plan for the purification of Chicago's morals in which citizens of all kinds are invited to participate was inaugurated yesterday by three agencies—Mayor Harrison, the city civil service commission, and the Illinois state labor board.

The cry is "Clean up the city."

The labor board aims to strike at the agencies which carry women into vice. The mayor and his commission dealt blows at vice centers themselves.

The effect of the movement as planned by the mayor will be to pen vice within one district where the self-respecting citizen need not go. Disorderly flats which have crept into residence districts of the city are to be closed. The mayor says he wants citizens to furnish him information as to these places. Conditions in the downtown hotels are to be improved. Orders have already been issued to the police department to force changes in the management of three Michigan avenue hostelries which have become haunts of women. Women frequenters of the streets are to be driven from the open. Women without escorts will not be permitted in cafés, says the mayor.

Three Factors in New Crusade.

Three important developments came yesterday as an earnest that the three governmental forces referred to mean business. They are as follows:

MAYOR HARRISON issued an order to Chief of Police McWeeny directing him to close up immediately the notorious Everleigh club at 2131 Dearborn street. He also sent the chief a list of forty-eight flats in the Cottage Grove avenue district. These also are to be closed immediately. The mayor's orders are imperative. The places must be closed and kept closed, he said.

THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION directed Chief of Police McWeeny to file in its office before 6 o'clock tonight all the reports on disorderly houses in Chicago that he has in his possession. These reports are to be filed away in a card index system which is to become a permanent record to be used in keeping vice in control.

THE ILLINOIS STATE LABOR COMMISSION ordered all the employment agencies in the city to file with it information showing the character of the work offered to women applicants. By this means it is hoped to put employment agencies permanently out of the traffic in women.

Everleigh Club Supposed Immune.

The order closing the Everleigh club furnished the south side vice district with the biggest sensation that has been exploded there in years. The place is the last sanctuary of vice in this city. It was supposed to be immune from police interference. Heretofore, even if every other resort in town were closed, the Everleigh club continued to operate full blast.

When Mayor Harrison ordered it out of business he knocked the chief pillar from under the structure that the social evil has built up in this city. The human cockroaches who batten around it were appalled by the mayor's action. In addition to this order the city's executive caused to be placed in Chief of Police McWeeny's hands a list of forty-eight flats which his own private investigators have found are places of bad character. These are all to be closed by the police forthwith.

They are located in what are known as the Cottage Grove avenue district. They are the more sumptuously furnished resorts to which revelers in the Twenty-second street district are directed when they want a "quiet time."

Still Runs in Full Blast.

Although Mayor Harrison's order called for immediate action in relation to the Everleigh club that institution was still wide open and crowded with men and women at midnight. Lights blazed in every room, music rang through the richly tapestried corridors, wine popped in all the parlors.

Minnie Everleigh, the "speaking" partner of the Everleigh sisters, had been warned, however, that she might have her establishment closed at any moment.

"Yes," she said, "I know the mayor's order is on the square. When my maid brought me the afternoon newspapers I got Capt. Harding of the Twenty-second street station on the telephone and asked him if the report that my place was to be closed was correct. He told me it was.

"He said the order had not come to him from the chief of police, but he expected it every minute. Ordinarily, when orders affecting the Twenty-second street district are issued from police headquarters in the afternoon they reach the Twenty-second street station before 8 o'clock in the evening. It is after that hour now, so it may not come to me until morning."

The Everleigh woman did not seem to be depressed by the knowledge that the mayor had decided to drive her out of business.

"I don't worry about anything," she continued, when queried on this point. "You get everything in a lifetime. Of course, if the mayor says we must close, that settles it. What the mayor says goes, so far as I am concerned. I'm not going to be sore about it, either. I never was a knocker, and nothing the police of this town can do to me will change my disposition. I'll close up the shop and walk out of the place with a smile on my face."

"Nobody else around here is worrying, either," she went on with a smile, waving a hand literally coruscated with diamonds toward the parlor, from which came sounds of music and bursts of laughter. If the ship sinks we're going down with a cheer and a good drink under our belts, anyway."

At 10 o'clock at night an effort was made to get Mayor Harrison on the telephone and find out why his order was not being carried out. The servant who answered the telephone said the mayor was in bed.

Wouldn't Wake Up Mayor.

"It's only 10 o'clock," the servant was told; "perhaps the mayor has not gone to sleep yet. Will you please tell him the Everleigh club, which he told Chief of Police McWeeny to close this afternoon, still is open, and ask him what he is going to do about it."

The servant was gone a moment or two. Then she returned to the phone and said:

"Mayor Harrison is sound asleep. I don't want to take the responsibility for waking him up."

Up to midnight Chief McWeeny could not be located.

The order to close the resort, which had been issued yesterday morning, was received by the police of the Twenty-second street station at 1 o'clock this morning. Officers were sent at once to notify the proprietors.

State Labor Board Acts.

The Illinois state labor commission yesterday mailed to all employment agencies in Chicago blank forms asking questions concerning the work offered to women applicants. In the future these blanks must be filled out at regular intervals and mailed to the commission. The data will be kept on record as evidence showing that applicants are not being sent to immoral institutions.

This method of dealing with the agencies was inaugurated because the commission has learned that many girls were being sold into slavery.

Legislation for the extermination of employment agencies that publish lists of fake positions was also recommended by the commission.

This action was taken as a result of the report of William M. Cruden, chief inspector for the commission.

Get List of Disorderly Houses.

Chief McWeeny, in compliance with orders from the civil service commission, began the work of gathering together his reports on houses of bad reputation in Chicago. These reports must be filed with the commission by 6 o'clock tonight.

This means the index card system of keeping this data testified to by Chief of Police McWeeny when he was on the stand before the commission and the personal record of every man on the duty must be delivered to the commission for investigation.

This data together with the mass of facts the commissioners have gathered in the present inquiry and by private investigation is to be filed away and made a permanent record. The record will be added to as events develop. In this way it will be possible for the commission to keep a close watch on every disorderly resort and every police officer assigned to the duty of watching them.

Plunkett Makes Admissions.

Capt. W. J. Plunkett, in answer to a long hypothetical question propounded to him while a witness before the civil service commission, yesterday virtually pleaded guilty to a charge of incompetency or worse in his management of the Desplaines street police district.

The question recited the conditions in the district as they are now shown to exist by private report in the hands of the commissioners.

"I wouldn't believe such a condition existed," was his first answer to the question put at the close of a two hour quizz at the hands of Attorney Wheelock and the commissioners. "You'd have to prove it."

"If proved," insisted Mr. Wheelock, "you wouldn't say it indicated good police work, would——"

"I'd say it was pretty bad," the captain interrupted. "Yes, it would be pretty bad.

"If witnesses prove policemen were in saloons they ought to be fired, you think?"

"Yes. No chance for them."

TRUSTING WIFE SHOWS HOARD TO STRANGERS; THEY GET IT.

Swindlers Arrange with Husband to Make Him Guardian of Child They Say Is Heir to $40,000.

After working sixteen years, Mathilda Ziconte and her good man saved $795. Ten days ago Pietro met two Italians. They asked him if he knew of a family who would take care of a child for them. One of them had been appointed guardian of the child—an heir to $40,000.

"The family will be well repaid," said the elder of the Italians. "All I want is the family to show me $1,000 so I can see it will be cared for."

Pietro went home and eagerly told his wife. Pietro and Mathilda drew their $795 from the Illinois Trust and Savings bank. Mathilda put it in a box and went to the Italians.

"Let us see more closely," they said, taking the box from her hands. "Ah, yes, we are satisfied. We will come to your house tonight with the child. Goodby."

After they had gone the musing Mathilda opened the box. It was filled with brown paper. The two Italians have disappeared.

DIG UP GIRL'S BODY SEEKING POISON

NEW THEORY OF DEFENSE

Richeson's Friends Say Miss Linnell Broke Engagement for Stage Career.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 24.—Removed today from the grave in the cemetery at Hyannis, the body of Miss Avis Linnell, for whose death by poisoning the Rev. C. V. T. Richeson of Cambridge is being held prisoner, was brought back to Boston tonight by order of District Attorney Pelletier.

Uncertainty on the part of the prosecution as to the exact manner in which the young girl met her death is reported unofficially to be the reason for the sudden move, and the announcement by the district attorney's office that the government has enlisted five medico-legal experts gives some strength to this report.

Incidental to the examination of the body the officials also will make a careful search of Miss Linnell's bathrobe, which was buried with the body, for anything which might have been used as a receptacle for the fatal powder she took. No definite statement as to just what is expected to be accomplished by the reëxamination of the body came from the district attorney's office tonight.

State to Outwit Defense.

It is understood that the examination of the body will be made at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning with only the state's experts in attendance. Attorney Philip R. Dunbar of counsel for Mr. Richeson, petitioned the court this afternoon for permission to have experts for the defense present, but the court decided to delay decision until tomorrow. Court will open too late to allow any representation by the defense at the examination planned for the early morning.

Richeson today addressed the following letter to his congregation at the Immanuel Baptist church, Cambridge:

"Dear Brethren:

"I appreciate the position in which the church is now placed, but I ask its consideration until after the preliminary hearing, or, if the grand jury meets first, then until that time.

"Most fraternally,
"CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON."

The next regular meeting of the church will be held Friday night, the day after the grand jury is expected to begin its deliberations. The letter probably will be read then and it is possible the grand jury may have reached a finding that the church will be able to act on.

Fiance Coming to Chicago.

In order to escape the notoriety which has come to her since the arrest of her fiancé, Miss Violet Edmands is to go to Chicago with her sister Rose.

The exact date of the departure of the two heiresses to the fortune of Moses Edmands has not been given out, but tickets were bought today and it is understood that they will leave wihin a day or two.

A close friend of the minister, who was to have been a prominent figure at his marriage to Violet Edmands, said today that Richeson had told Miss Edmands of the Linnell girl, but that his story differed a great deal from that which had been given to the public.

Girl Appealed for Aid?

As told to Miss Edmands by the minister, he was at one time engaged to Miss Linnell, but the girl decided she was not adapted to be the wife of a minister, feeling that she had a greater career ahead of her as an opera singer. For this reason Miss Linnell herself broke the engagement, following which, Richeson says, he saw her only as a friend. He says he has letters from Miss Linnell in support of this statement, and it is hinted by the defense that he has other letters in which Miss Linnell wrote to him as her pastor, telling him that she was in trouble and asking him to assist her.

A young man of Berlin, N. H., who is a former admirer of Avis Linnell and who, the defense hints, had opportunity to give her poison, today admitted he was in Boston on the day before her death and that he had written to her, but says he did not dine with her on the day of the tragedy.

RECORD BY ORVILLE WRIGHT.

Remains Stationary 150 Feet in the Air Nearly Ten Minutes Under Adverse Conditions.

Kill Devil Hill, N. C., Oct. 24.—Orville Wright went aloft today and remained virtually stationary in his glider, with which he is conducting experiments in aerial stability. He was up nine minutes and forty-five seconds and maintained an altitude of approximately 150 feet.

This also sets a uew altitude record for glider.

The record breaking flight was the seventeenth in a series that began today. Sand, carried by the wind, pelted the aviators, the tiny particles cutting like small shot. In the opinion of the experimenters, no more trying weather conditions in which to make the test of the machine could be found.

WATERWAY BILL UP TO PASSAGE

organization would have the stiffest kind of a fight in preventing the passage of the bill.

The house reassembled at 5 o'clock this afternoon and the measure was reported by Representative Smejkal. The earlier plans had called for a bitter row over the parliamentary question of placing the bill on the calendar in the order of the second reading, which would have required merely a majority of those voting.

This was the point where the anti-administration leaders first showed signs of weakening. Mr. Shurtleff took the floor and said he had no objection to the bill going past second reading and taking its place on the calendar, but he wanted a finish fight tomorrow on the question of its passage. Without much more ado Speaker Adkins ordered the bill read a second time, and no amendments appearing, the speaker ordered it sent to third reading.

Bill Made a Special Order.

Representative Holaday at once moved that the house adjourn, which meant that business would resume at 10 o'clock in the morning. This did not suit the plans of the administration end of the house, which forced the roll call, defeating the Holaday proposition.

Representative Judah then moved that the house adjourn until 4 tomorrow afternoon and that the bill be made a special order immediately after the reading of the journal.

Members who have been in conference with Gov. Deneen tonight still believe the requisite seventy-seven votes will be forthcoming tomorrow afternoon, provided the Sullivan Democrats appear on the scene.

The senate is to get back Thursday and work on appropriation bills.

WIFE OF CRIPPLE WINS PRIZE FARM

Mrs. Mary J. Kendall of Rapid City, S. D., Draws the First Claim.

THREE CHICAGOANS SCORE

One Will Put Two Sons on Property in the Rosebud Country.

Gregory, S. D., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Mary J. Kendall of Rapid City, S. D. drew No. 1 in the Rosebud land lottery today. She is the wife of Stacy R. Kendall, a paralytic, and registered under her rights as the support of the family.

While going to the bedside of a dying child in 1906 Kendall was thrown from a horse and suffered injuries which resulted in his present condition. Mr. and Mrs. Kendall moved to the Black Hills country about five years ago. Mrs. Kendall is 46 years old. Her farm is valued at $10,000.

Three Chicagoans Winners.

Three Chicagoans drew claims on the opening day. One was ninth on the list. The Chicagoans and the number of their claims are as follows,

9. CLEMENT DAEGLING, 6030 Woodlawn avenue.

81. WILLAM E. COLLINS, 3459 Lexington street.

190. MRS. J. M. CLAFFEY, 435 East Thirty-first street.

More than 3,000 persons were present at the opening of the drawing and many of the lucky ones were in the audience. Christ Olson of Wisner, Neb., cried out, "That's me," when his name was announced as drawing No. 170.

PLANS OF A CHICAGO WINNER.

William E. Collins, 3459 Lexington street, who drew a farm in the land drawing at Gregory, S. D., is employed in the construction department of the Northwestern railway company. He was in the neighborhood of the Indian lands when granted a vacation and decided to take advantage of his spare time by filing application at Gregory. He says he will take his two oldest sons to the tract of 160 acres he has drawn. The land is far from any town, he says, and therefore his wife will remain in Chicago until proper preparations for her comfort on his claim can be made.

SERVICES FOR JOHN R. WALSH TO BE PUBLIC AT RESIDENCE.

Ceremony at Oakwoods Will Be Private—Former Employes of Banker Will Be Pallbearers.

Funeral services for John R. Walsh will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Walsh home, 2133 Calumet avenue, and will not be private as first planned. While the service is in progress all quarries and stone mills at Bedford, Ind., where Mr. Walsh had extensive interests, will be closed ten minutes in accordance with a proclamation issued by the mayor.

Friends of the banker will be present at the residence, but a service at Oakwoods will be private. There will be no honorary pallbearers. Six old employés of the former banker and railroad builder will carry his body to its final resting place.

The pallbearers are T. M. Jackson, John C. Harrington, John E. O'Shaughnessy, John E. Shea, Charles E. Schick, and Church G. Todd. The Rev. William E. Toll of Evanston will officiate.

"Mr. Walsh's attitude during the last months of his life was one of charity and forgiveness toward his bitterest enemies," said George T. Buckingham, his legal adviser. "He would say nothing against the men who were charged with bringing about his ruin. I recall that on several occasions when certain men were mentioned to him he said: 'O, I suppose that they thought they were right.'"

JEKYLL-HYDE AIDS ENRIGHT

Witness Juggles Coats and Looks Like Defendant.

WIFE IMPEACHES IRISH.

Son Also Calls "Bad" Reputation of State's Star Witness.

Testimony that the jury in the "Moss" Enright murder case would see as well as hear was introduced yesterday for the defense by Attorney Charles Erbstein, counsel for the defense.

James P. Noonan of Springfield, Ill., was first called. All he had to say was that he was in the lobby of the Briggs house when the shots were fired. Then all of a sudden Erbstein handed the witness the gray overcoat and hat which Enright is said to have worn at the time of the shooting. Noonan did a "Jekyll and Hyde" act by putting on the hat and coat. Thus transformed, he stood up and faced the jury.

Jury Hears Audience Whisper.

"He does look like Enright, doesn't he?" whispered the friends of the defendant. The whispers were so loud that the jury could not miss hearing them.

The rest of the audience, having been enlightened, expected, of course, Noonan would testify it was he and not Enright who struggled with John J. Brittain in the doorway of the saloon, but nothing of that sort happened. Noonan did not even offer to buy the coat. He left the stand after trying it on.

Wife and Son Impeach Irish.

Then followed five witnesses to testify that the truth was not in Fred Irish, principal witness for the state. The first three were neighbors of the family.

The fourth was Leroy Irish, son of the man whose truthfulness was attacked, and the fifth one was Mrs. Fred Irish. She went a step farther than the others. She said her husband's reputation for veracity was not only bad but "very bad."

DRY PETITION AWAITS TAFT ON TRIP TO NAVAL STATION.

Ministers to Ask Extension of Federal Zone to Five Miles—Would End Waukegan Saloons.

When President Taft goes to North Chicago Saturday afternoon to dedicate the new training station he will be waited upon by a score of Lake county and Cook county ministers along the north shore bearing huge petitions asking the executive to use his influence with the Illinois legislature to have it enact a law which will provide a five mile dry zone about government reservations instead of the mile and an eighth law as it now exists in Illinois. Admiral Ross of the training station is one of the ardent supporters of the plan. In case the new law should be enacted Waukegan, with its sixty saloons, will become a dry town. The Rev. E. W. Gavin of the Church of the Immaculate Conception is the leader in the movement.

BRIDE CONFESSES THEFT OF JEWELS

Mrs. Frank A. Warde Admits Taking Handbag from a Beauty Parlor.

CAN'T EXPLAIN IMPULSE.

Returned Gems Before Arrest; Fears Husband May Not Forgive Her.

Mrs. Jeanette Warde, a young bride of eight weeks, was arraigned in the Hyde Park Municipal court yesterday on the charge of stealing the handbag of Mrs. Francis A. McDonnell, 4449 Lake avenue, which disappeared last Wednesday from a south side hairdressing establishment.

With the arrest of Mrs. Warde the police puzzle of the missing handbag, which contained $1,000 worth of jewelry, non-negotiable papers, and cash amounting to $35, was solved. Mrs. Warde confessed readily to the detectives who arrested her Monday afternoon. Previously she had voluntarily returned most of the valuables.

Mrs. Warde said she is the wife of Frank A. Warde, manager of a garage at 1450 South Michigan avenue. They live at 686 East Forty-fourth street. Apparently the new home was supplied with enough luxuries to satisfy the taste of the young woman.

Motive for Theft Lacking.

The motive for the theft is yet unexplained, for shortly after Mrs. Warde took the pretty handbag which tempted her she mailed the owner most of the jewels—that portion of her booty which she undoubtedly craved most. When her identity was discovered by George O'Brien, brother of Mrs. McDonnell, she surrendered to detectives who accompanied him the rest of her loot. She appeared much relieved when she had surrendered the last of the stolen treasures.

Mrs. Warde was red eyed from weeping yesterday afternoon when she appeared in the courtroom of the Hyde Park station. Her case was continued till Nov. 8. She is said to have told her attorney that she could not explain why she stole the handbag. She told him that her greatest concern is that her husband may not forgive her.

Fears Husband's Attitude.

"I am afraid this insane act of mine will break up my home," she said. "He does not believe yet that I stole the jewels. When he realizes the truth I am afraid he will divorce me. My friends will drop me and my own family will disown me. My mother does not know about it yet, and I don't know how I can ever face her again.

"I have not the slightest idea what possessed me when I took that handbag. When I came out in the street, I realized what I had done and I wanted to return the bag there and then, but I did not dare. I went home and began to study out right away how I could return everything. I sent Mrs. McDonnell through the mail as much as I dared send. I was afraid some of the jewels might be lost."

It was reported yesterday that Mrs. Warde had been married before she wed Warde, and that she secured a divorce some time ago in this city. The name of her former husband is said to have been Blake.

Husband Ignorant of Theft.

Earlier in the day Mr. Warde was found at his place of business. He then denied that his wife had been implicated in the jewel robbery.

"You must have the wrong man," he said. "I know nothing of the theft and I have heard nothing of it."

Mrs. McDonnell was not in court to face Mrs. Warde.

SUPPER AND SERMON: 10 CENTS; MUSIC AND WELCOME ADDED.

Trinity Episcopal Church Offers New Attraction to Draw Public from Nickel Shows to Services.

Trinity Episcopal church, located at Twenty-sixth street and Michigan avenue, a district which is being encroached upon daily by a rapidly growing vice district, yesterday announced the inauguration of a campaign for fighting Satan with food.

In order to attract the people of the neighborhood and compete with the nickel and dime shows, the church proposes on each Sunday evening during the winter to serve to all comers a hot supper at 10 cents for each meal.

With the supper the church will "throw in" the freedom of the big parish house, including its comfortable smoking room, an organ recital, and a religious service.

While, of course, it will be impossible to serve anything elaborate for the price asked, the supper that the church will serve will be palatable and "filling." Next Sunday evening, for instance, there will be a fish turbot with bread and butter and coffee with cream. The Sunday following the piece de resistance will be escalloped oysters, and the week after that a savory mutton stew.

The work is under the direction of the rector, the Rev. John M. McGann, and he is assisted by a large number of women socially prominent on the south side.

BAR PRIMARY CLOSES TODAY.

Balloting on Judicial Candidates by Lawyers' Association Will End at 1 O'Clock.

The Chicago Bar association's primary election, intended to express judgment on the qualifications of the judicial candidates, will close at 1 o'clock today.

By the last mail yesterday 1,200 of the 1,700 ballots distributed had been voted, and about half the balance are expected early this morning. The candidates are arranged in alphabetical order, regardless of party affiliations. No inkling of the winners can be obtained until C. P. Denning, assistant secretary of the association, turns over the sealed envelopes to the canvassing committee, headed by Edmund S. Cummings.

Preparations are being made for the dinner to President Taft at the Hotel La Salle on Saturday. Edgar B. Tolman, president of the association, will be toastmaster.

JUDICIARY TICKET HELD LEGAL.

Party Convention Nominations Upheld in Board's Reply—Anti-Socialist Verdict Upheld.

Judicial nominations made in party conventions on Sept. 19 are legal, according to a board consisting of County Judge John E. Owens, County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer, and State's Attorney John E. W. Wayman, which ruled on the question yesterday. Charles E. Zollars, independent candidate for judge, sought to have the nominations of candidates made in conventions declared illegal, but he lost his fight. The board also upheld the ruling of the election commissioners that the Socialist nominees for the judgeships failed to file their petitions within the time required by law.

POETICAL PARROT PULLS HAIR

F. W. Childs Loses Liking for Bird He Found Under Bed.

IMOGENE GOES TO STATION.

She Causes Wild Time Among Policemen; Finally Adopted.

All the poetry that floods the soul of Imogene, the poetical parrot adopted by F. W. Childs, publisher, who lives at 829 Milburn street, Evanston, turned to bile yesterday. Imogene will be recalled as the bird Mr. Childs found under his bed Sunday morning crooning lullabies illuminated here and there with profanity. Mr. Childs was so pleased with her linguistic exploits that he adopted her.

Yesterday afternoon Imogene, who up to that time had treated her adopter with distinguished consideration, suddenly went quite stark, screaming mad.

"What t'ell," she shrieked, leaping off her pedestal and landing on the top of Mr. Child's head. "Swim boys, the ship's sinking. Who's a liar? I'm a liar. You're a liar. The house's afire. Eat 'em, bite 'em, scrunch 'em. Wow, wow, wahoo."

Tries to Scalp Rescuer.

Thereupon, with quantities of Mr. Childs' hair in her claws, she fell down in a fit. Before Imogene could come to Childs chucked her in a sack and lugged her over to the police station.

"Here's a wild parrot," he said. "Take it. Good day."

Three minutes after Childs fled Imogene came to life again. Quietly and unostentatiously she bit a hole through the sack and then leaped to a bar over the desk sergeant's window.

"What t'ell," she screamed, addressing the policemen; "you're all a lot of liars. Wahoo! I'm a goose; I'm a duck; I'm a beagle. Dammit, don't tell me you can't dance, Clara. No child of mine shall be an actress."

Tries Hair Pulling Again.

Imogene then attempted to duplicate the hair pulling feat that had been such a success in Child's case, but a policeman got her by the legs and stuck her in the sack again. Then she was carried downstairs and stowed in a cell. About midnight Assistant Chief Johnson dropped into the station. They took him down and showed him Imogene in her sack.

"That's a bright bird," said Johnson, "I'll take her home."

CHILD SLIDES TO HER DEATH.

Loses Balance on Bannister While Racing Playmate Downstairs in Parents' Home.

"I'll beat you down," said Margaret Ward, a child of 5, to Ethel Weinberg, her playmate. Ethel was walking down three flights of stairs in the rear of the Ward residence, 4167 South State street. Margaret tried to slide down the bannisters. She lost her balance. When picked up she was dead.

DUMPS DYING MAN OFF LITTER

Ambulance Doctor Accused of Causing Gas Victim's Death.

CHARGES WILL BE FILED.

Two Physicians Say Life Could Have Been Saved.

Henry Szulis is dead at the Park Avenue hospital from gas poisoning and pneumonia. Two doctors who attended him will file charges that his death was due to the brutality of an ambulance physician employed by the city.

The ambulance physician, according to Drs. R. H. Phillips and O. E. Kuhn, tumbled Szulis from a stretcher because his physicians insisted that he be taken to the nearest hospital, the Park Avenue institution, instead of the county hospital. The patient's condition was such that the long trip to the county hospital was deemed inadvisable.

When Szulis finally was taken to the Park Avenue hospital in a taxicab it was found that he had contracted pneumonia from exposure while lying on the floor where he had been tossed by the ambulance doctor. A city ordinance provides that in emergency cases a patient shall be taken to the nearest hospital.

Long Wait for Ambulance.

Szulis was found unconscious in a rooming house at 1439 Ogden avenue conducted by Mrs. Anna Smith. Drs. Phillips and Kuhn were summoned from their offices at 1542 West Madison street. They sent Mrs. Smith to call an ambulance while they worked over the unconscious man. This was at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon and the ambulance did not come from the Desplaines street station until 3 o'clock.

Drs. Phillips and Kuhn told the ambulance doctor that the chances for Szulis to live lay in getting him to a hospital quickly. The Park Avenue hospital is only a few blocks from the Ogden avenue rooming house. The ambulance doctor without parley dumped the unconscious man off the stretcher.

Charge Against Classmate.

The ambulance physician was a classmate of Dr. Phillips and Dr. Phillips was shocked at the treatment accorded his patient by a friend. He has employed a private investigator, C. Woodruff.

Constantine charged her with being $25 short in her account. Louis Robbins, Known to Nearly Every One in the Loop District, Succumbs at the Age of 62.

Louis Robbins, the oldest cab driver in Chicago, died yesterday at the county hospital after an illness of three weeks. Death was caused by a carbuncle on the back of the neck. It affected the spinal cord.

Robbins had driven a cab in Chicago forty-two years. During all that time he had remained faithful to the horse, although taxicabs have almost driven cabs off the downtown streets. He was known by everybody in the loop.

Robbins was born at Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 14, sixty-two years ago. He came here in 1858. At 20 he started driving a cab for Tom Cassidy, then on Newberry avenue, near Twelfth street. During the Chicago fire he drove a horse for three days without rest or food. At the time of the world's fair he kept a livery barn at 300 Polk street.

After the fair, however, Robbins returned again to his cab. He was one of those who love their work and nothing suited him better than a good night stand on a downtown corner. He preferred night work to day work. He was willing to lose money in order to be on the streets after dark.

Robbins never married. He roomed alone, although he has a married brother, H. E. Robbins, in the real estate business. He was valuable as a news tipster, and one of his last acts was to sell The Tribune a story.

The funeral will be held tomorrow. The body will be taken by train to Crete, Ill., where interment will be made.

J. J. MITCHELL HELPS VERDICT.

Bank President on Jury Declares the First Finding Is Result of Compromise.

The jury on which John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, served all day yesterday returned a compromise verdict.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Keebler had been sued by Joseph Bobbe, a contractor, for payment for placing burlap on the walls of lodgerooms she owned. After Mrs. Keebler had mailed Bobbe a check, she asserted, the burlap was falling off. Then she ordered her bank to stop payment on the check.

"It was a compromise verdict," said Mr. Mitchell. "We gave Bobbe $200—about half of what he asked."

BUTTER MEN FACE FEDERAL INQUIRY

Grand Jury Scheduled to Investigate Elgin Board; Landis Gives "Tip."

JUDGE EXCUSES JUROR.

Learns C. H. Porter Is Member of Body; Virtual Control of Prices Charged.

Any lingering doubt as to the serious intentions of the government in regard to the Elgin butter board, which has been under investigation for a year and a half, was dispelled yesterday. It has been charged that this body virtually fixes butter prices throughout the country.

C. H. Potter of Elgin, formerly a butter manufacturer but recently a trader and a member of the Elgin board, was excused by Judge Landis in the United States District court from acting on the federal grand jury. He had stood the preliminary examination, but was sharply interrogated by the court just before his fellows took the oath.

"Where did you say you were from, Mr. Potter?" asked the court.

"Elgin," responded Potter. "I am a farmer. I deal in butter."

Judge's Reason Gives Clew.

District Attorney Wilkerson jumped to his feet, but Judge Landis continued questioning, and led Potter to admit he sold butter and was a member of the board against which former District Attorney Edwin A. Sims filed a suit in June, 1910.

"I think we will excuse you," ended Judge Landis. "This is in view of some matters which"—with a glance about the courtroom—"which may come before the grand jury. I appreciate the fact that you have not tried to evade service, but I think you may be excused."

The butter board investigation has been in process intermittently for months. About two years ago a senate committee summoned officials of the Elgin board of trade to Washington and questioned them. Nothing came of this investigation. Subsequently the government brought suit to enjoin the Chicago butter and egg board from maintaining its butter and egg quotation committee in violation of the Sherman act. This is now on hearing before Master in Chancery Charles B. Morrison. District Attorney Albert G. Welch is in charge of this investigation.

Charged Control of Prices.

The original bill declared quotations on butter were not governed by the natural laws of supply and demand, and may lead to an attempt to dissolve the board and also to prosecution of its officers.

BRIBE CASH $3,200 SHOWN IN BANK

Documents Prove $2,500 and $700 Deposited in Favor of Holstlaw.

FILL EVIDENCE CHAIN.

Blair, Recalled, Has Memory as Defective as Ever as to His Own Finances.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

The chain of evidence in connection with the deposits of State Senator D. W. Holstlaw in the State Bank of Chicago of the $3,200 bribe money he received from State Senator John Broderick, is complete.

Before the senate investigating committee yesterday there were produced books and papers tending to confirm beyond question the receipt by the State Bank of Chicago of $2,500 in currency on June 16, 1909, and $700 in currency on Aug. 28, 1909, which were placed to the credit of the Holstlaw bank of Iuka. Up to date, the committee has secured with reference to the $2,500 deposit:

An identified photographic copy of the original deposit slip in the handwriting of Jervis O. Newton, chief clerk of the State Bank of Chicago.

The note teller's cash collection sheet.

The transit book.

The bank ledger.

The duplicate deposit slip from the Holstlaw bank.

The records of the Holstlaw bank.

The monthly statement of the State Bank of Chicago to the Holstlaw bank for the month of June, 1909.

Proof of $700 Deposit.

The deposit of $700 has been established by:

The original deposit slip in the handwriting of Jervis O. Newton, chief clerk of the State Bank of Chicago.

The transit book.

The bank ledger.

The duplicate deposit slip from the Holstlaw bank.

The records of the Holstlaw bank.

The monthly statement of the State Bank of Chicago to the Holstlaw bank for the month of August, 1909.

The monthly statements of the State Bank of Chicago further establish:

That the $2,500 and $700 deposits were the only deposits in currency, and, indeed, the only deposits made in Chicago at all put by the credit of the State Bank of Chicago to the Holstlaw bank of Iuka.

Thus Attorneys Marble and Healy have forged link after link of a chain which makes a complete circle. Counsel for Senator Lorimer made desperate efforts to find a weak point, questioning Mr. Newton and Joseph F. Notheis, note teller of the State Bank of Chicago, with persistent reiteration about details of banking business which had only a remote, if any, connection with the Holstlaw deposits.

But Holstlaw's testimony on this point is partially corroborated by State Senator Jandus, who swore he met him in Broderick's saloon and accompanied him on the street car to the corner where the State Bank of Chicago is located.

Blair's Memory Still Wavers.

Newton and Notheis were followed by former Representative W. C. Blair, whose memory was as defective and whose answers were as evasive as they were when he was on the witness stand some days ago. Mr. Marble established by items in Mount Vernon newspapers, dated July 20, 1909, that Blair had gone to Olney on "court business," and by Centralia papers dated July 21 that the witness was in Centralia the previous day.

These, with the hotel register at Olney, establish Blair was in Olney on July 20 and in Centralia on the afternoon of that day, where he witnessed a ball game and displayed a number of $100 bills.

How He Drew His Salary.

Mr. Marble also brought out by a certificate from the state treasurer that Blair drew his legislative salary as follows:

Jan. 6, 1909	$ 50.00
Feb. 9, 1909	750.00
Feb. 16, 1909	1,274.20
Total	$2,074.20

Blair produced receipts from the state treasurer showing that immediately after his arrival in Springfield he drew $100 and a week later $400. This money he thought was subtracted from the check for $750 which he received on Feb. 9. But it was shown by the check that it had been deposited in the Ham National bank of Mount Vernon and that consequently the $500 must have been deducted from the check of $1,274.20.

Blair said he used part of the $500 to pay some of his debts. He gave the same testimony with respect to the $750. His debts aggregated, he said, about $3,300, $1,300 of which was in the form of a mortgage on his home. He admitted he has paid nothing on the mortgage.

Blair gave the committee to understand he used slipshod methods in keeping his law accounts and that he could not furnish any definite information as to the amount of money he collected in 1909.

Representative Tippit, who lives in Olney, probably will be the first witness today. Tippit was the leader of a faction in the legislature. He will be questioned particularly as to whether Blair called on him at Olney on or about July 20, 1909.

STEPHENSON MAN HINTS PLOT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—Testimony concerning an alleged plot to fabricate evidence against Senator Isaac Stephenson and then to offer to keep it out of the present investigation for a money consideration was given by M. J. Regan, a Milwaukee business man, before the United States senate committee today.

H. W. Wood, a private detective, and Frank T. Souther had testified they both were at a conference with Regan when the latter told of a scheme whereby Robert J. Shields, associated in business with Edward Hines, the lumberman, had come from Washington to "buy up" the Wisconsin legislature so that Senator Stephenson could be elected in March, 1909.

Tell Story of Corruption.

The story which Wood and Souther testified had been given them by Regan was that Shields, coming from Washington, had met Regan by appointment in Milwaukee, that Shields said he had unlimited money to purchase Democratic members of the legislature, who were to remain away so that Stephenson might be elected; that Shields wanted Regan to go to Madison to carry on the deal, but that Regan refused and Shields himself went.

Taking the stand after Wood and Souther had given this testimony, Regan declared he never had made any such statement, but that, on the contrary, Wood and Souther had "framed up" the story with a view of obtaining money from Senator Stephenson's attorneys to suppress it.

Regan was still on the stand when adjournment was taken. His contradiction of the statements by Wood and Souther, it is announced, will necessitate the recall of numerous witnesses, including Shields.

Plans of the south park commissioners to construct a water tunnel connecting with the city's new southwest land and water tunnel were approved yesterday by the city council water committee. An ordinance authorizing its construction was recommended for passage.

The tunnel is to tap the city's new fourteen foot tunnel at Seventy-first street and Drexel avenue. It will have a capacity of 10,000,000 gallons of water daily.

Members of the city council will inspect the city's new tunnel this afternoon. It will be ready for use in December. Its daily capacity is 300,000,000 gallons.

HENNING DELAYS HIS FUNK SUIT

Slips Into West Pullman and Makes Affidavit to Postpone Trial.

THEN VANISHES AGAIN.

Says He Started Action After Finding Out He Was a "Wronged Husband."

John C. Henning, plaintiff in the $25,000 alienation suit against Clarence S. Funk, yesterday defeated the efforts of the defense for a revelation of facts and speedy hearing. That means final disposition in about a year.

Attorney Frank H. Scott, who appeared in behalf of Mr. Funk, was surprised to have his affidavits countered by one from Henning personally. Henning was believed to be somewhere in the south. Disclosures show he got into West Pullman unobserved Monday night and remained long enough to swear to the allegations of his bill at the residence of Thomas W. Lamble, notary public, residing at 12 West One Hundred and Twelfth street.

Neither Were in Court.

In accordance with his announcement to Attorney Daniel Donahoe, representing Henning, Mr. Scott appeared before Judge Oscar E. Heard and moved that the case be heard in advance of its regular turn on the calendar. Donahoe cited authorities to show Judge Heard didn't have jurisdiction over terms of court that had not yet commenced. The judge agreed with him. Neither the plaintiff or defendant was in court.

One paragraph of the Henning affidavit sets forth that "he commenced the suit after he had come upon evidence that convinced him he was a wronged husband." He complains about the manner in which detectives followed him" even to the offices of his lawyers, Donahoe & Hartnett," and says all this would be prejudicial to a hearing at this time.

Says Suit Is Not in Good Faith.

Mr. Funk's affidavit set forth that the suit was not brought in good faith, that the court is being used for an ulterior motive, and the pretended cause of action is prejudicial to the interests of the public, as well as the defendant. Mr. Funk tells of appearing before the state and federal committees investigating Lorimer's election to the senate and recites numerous efforts to discredit him as a witness and blacken his reputation. Mr. Funk also swears he never heard of the Hennings before the suit was brought and never associated with the plaintiff's wife. Mr. Funk alleges the Hennings, who are still living together as man and wife, were paid a money consideration to allow the use of their names in this litigation.

Supporting the Funk affidavit was one from Attorney Charles O. Rundall to the effect that other residents of the apartment house at 310 East Forty-fifth street, where the Hennings resided for two years previous to their recent disappearance, all said they appeared to be happy.

Autos Fail to Prevent Arrests.

Four men were arrested early yesterday morning, following an attempt to escape in two automobiles after engaging in a free-for-all fight at Calumet avenue and East Thirty-ninth street. The men are: George Howie, chauffeur; Henry Schnides, 4229 Prairie avenue; George Busani, 508 East Forty-third street, and Harry Smith, 815 North Desplaines street.

The Follies of Advertising
Mistakes That Need Not Be Repeated

There have been countless mistakes made in advertising, and someone paid the penalty for each.

Someone learned a lesson.

Countless moves have proved very successful, and someone knows the reason.

You are using ideas which others proved fallacious.

You are making mistakes for which others paid dearly.

You are doing some things which other men do better.

And there are many maneuvers, unknown to you, to which other men owe their success.

Suppose you had access to all this experience—in a thousand separate lines.

Suppose every question could be answered correctly by someone's proved solution.

Suppose every selling idea, right or wrong, could be followed by you to its outcome.

Suppose a thousand advertisers taught you all the lessons of their thousand business lifetimes.

Don't you think it would help you to mark your own course? Don't you think it would save you mistakes?

We have for decades been in intimate contact with leaders in a thousand lines.

We have been their advisers—their co-workers—in all that pertains to selling.

We have kept familiar with their every move. We know every stepping-stone, every pitfall they encountered.

Their every maneuver, whether it failed or succeeded, is recorded in our Books of Experience.

From this mass of data, in the course of years, we have evolved a new science, called Strategy in Advertising.

It comes from combining a myriad experiences into certain fixed rules of procedure.

It has revolutionized advertising in our institution. It is doing in a month what once took years. It is doing cheaply what once was expensive. It is doing safely what once was a gamble.

Since the advent of Strategy, based on endless experience, the whole science of advertising has assumed a new aspect.

The methods and results are now, for the first time, set down in a book, illustrated by many examples. It is the most interesting, most helpful book ever issued on advertising.

Whoever has a selling problem is welcome to this book. The ablest man will find instruction in it. We are glad to send it as an insight to this Agency's efficiency.

Cut out this reminder; put it in your pocket. Then, when convenient, write us for the book or phone Randolph 2284 for an appointment.

The Austrian government believed, the premier said, that mediation between the two countries at present was impossible.

Rebuked and Discharged from Service Because He Talked to Son-in-Law of Gen. Otis.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24.—B. W. Clark, a venireman in the McNamara murder case, was rebuked by the court and discharged from service today. Clark admitted he had talked in the street yesterday with Harry Chandler, vice president and assistant general manager of the Times-Mirror company and son-in-law of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of the Los Angeles Times.

Chandler, according to Clark, had said he hoped the talesman would qualify as a juror.

Six jurors temporarily accepted by both sides were in the box tonight, but all are subject and liable to peremptory challenge.

It was stated definitely today that fourteen men would hear the McNamara case as jurors.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

Mrs. Foster took the stand this morning. She testified that she was born in America and educated in Paris. While in the French capital she studied painting. Mrs. Foster said she first met Mr. Beecham while in search of a studio in a house of which he was the landlord. Their acquaintance ripened into friendship. Her husband, she testified, is a quarrelsome man of bad temper.

Mrs. Foster denied that she had been guilty of misconduct with Mr. Beecham.

ADMIRAL MAY BE KILLED

Imperial General Demands Artillery and Money to Pay Off His Troops.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 24.—News from the scene of operations on the Yangtse-Kiang is to the effect that the rebels have captured and occupied Kiu-Kiang, 130 miles southeast of Hankow. They burned the yamen of the governor and cut the telegraph lines.

Kiu-Kiang is a treaty port on the Yangtse-Kiang in the province of Kiang-Si. An official statement issued at Peking yesterday stated that Admiral Jui Cheng was there with three gunboats. As there is a price on his head and as the admiral reported that he was without oil and rice, and was awaiting death, the rebels probably will try to accommodate him.

Huhkow, at the entrance to Poyang lake, also is in the hands of the rebels. The only setback the rebels are reported to have received came Friday and Saturday at Sen Yang Chow, where the imperialists won a battle and killed between 600 and 700, losing only a few men themselves.

The revolutionists occupied Chang Sha, the capital of the province of Hu-Nan, on Oct. 22. The governor of the province fled. Some of the Manchu officials were killed, but all the foreigners in the place were protected by the rebel commanders. The Japanese consul is holding a Japanese steamboat for the transfer of women and children.

General Awaits Artillery.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PEKING, Oct. 24.—Gen. Yin Chang is still organizing his forces at Sen Yank Chow and does not intend to attack until he believes that he is able to win a decisive victory. He has appealed to the government for more artillery, saying that the rebels have 400 guns and that the imperialists must strengthen that arm of the service before they can advance. He has also demanded money with which to pay the soldiers.

The government is responding as well as possible. In the meanwhile Yin Chang's outposts are keeping in touch with the rebels.

The city of Sian, regarded as one of the government's surest strongholds, has gone over to the rebels without a blow having been struck. Sian is the capital of Shensi province, with a population of 750,000.

Revolution Gains Strength.

Nothing definite is known of the movements of the rebel forces, but all rumors have it that the revolution is spreading and gaining strength. It is said the Mohammedans of Kan-Su, who have been in a state of rebellion since August, are likely to join the republicans.

The constitutional progressives, who are in the majority in the national assembly, have formulated a series of demands for reforms which they will submit to the throne, declaring that it is the only way possible to avert disrupture of the empire.

TRIBUNE FINDS WOMAN'S SON

He Learns Dying Mother Is Calling for Him in East.

WAS LOST TO HIS FAMILY.

Declares He Might Never Have Known but for Article.

"The world's greatest newspaper, that's what it is; I'd never have known that my mother was ill if it hadn't been for THE TRIBUNE," said C. B. Falconer yesterday when informed that his mother was dying at Baltimore, Md., and was calling for him to come home.

Falconer, who is employed by the F. Dittman commission house at 125 North Union street, came to Chicago last July. He is an egg candler. For some reason he has failed to correspond with his wife, Mrs. Nellie Falconer, or his mother.

They did not know his whereabouts when his mother became ill, although he was believed to be in Chicago.

Mrs. Falconer wrote to Postmaster Daniel A. Campbell telling him her husband was wanted home, and a short extract was published in THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning. Within a few hours Falconer was found through friends who read the article. He immediately communicated with his family and prepared to leave for the east.

"I might never have known of it," he said yesterday, "if it had not been for THE TRIBUNE. I have a 2 year old son, but I have not heard of him since I left home. Now everything is changed and I certainly won't lose track of my folks hereafter. I have wired home and as soon as I can I will join my family.

"I am thankful to THE TRIBUNE and am telling my story because I think it may help some one else."

CICERO PLANS VEHICLE TAX.

The Cicero town board is said to be ready to adopt the scheme of Forest Park, and at the next meeting it is believed a vehicle tax ordinance will be passed, aimed chiefly at Chicago vehicle owners.

PSEUDO "MISS LIBBEY" JOINS HEARTS AT CHURCH BAZAAR.

"Double" of "The Tribune's" Expert Appears—Two Couples Plight Troth—Young Women "Specialist's" Aids.

Miss Laura Jean Libbey, THE TRIBUNE'S expert on affairs of the heart, has a mysterious competitor. Just who it is, she does not know, but her first successes have proved startling. This competitor appeared at the "harvest moon" carnival of St. Laurence's Roman Catholic church on Sept. 16. She even made bold to masquerade as Miss Libbey in a booth which flaunted the sign, "Laura Jean Libbey's Corner."

It so happened that the pseudo Miss Libbey was assisted in her work of giving "heart advice" to all comers by Miss Ruth Shaw, 1511 East Seventy-sixth place, and Miss Olive Murphy, 6830 Langley avenue. The two young women found patrons for the booth, among them Leroy H. Engel, former high school athlete and now a south side business man, and William H. Blythe, 7221 Dobson avenue.

The advice which the young men received must have proved acceptable, and Miss Libbey undoubtedly found time to have a little talk with her assistants, for the engagements of Miss Shaw to Mr. Engel and of Miss Murphy to Mr. Blythe were announced yesterday.

Miss Cheatham Sings for Women Athletes.

IF IT were the province of this department to be critical the program given by Miss Kitty Cheatham at the Woman's Athletic club yesterday morning would be approached with delight. As, instead, it is merely the record of news in the society world, it is a pleasure to say such was the enthusiasm of the women who were guests that Miss Cheatham was applauded at the close of a two hours' program until she gave a neat little speech of appreciation.

Miss Cheatham came from the east following a reputation which brought to the club the largest company of members and guests that has gathered in the parlors this year. She gave a program of songs—French, English, and American—a group of impersonations and a reading or two, all of which delighted her listeners of the morning.

Miss Cheatham's gift of intimacy with her audiences made possible a series of tales, illustrative and reminiscent of travel and experiences, which were woven in between the numbers, making of the morning more of a musical conversazione than one of a program merely.

Following the morning entertainment a luncheon was given at the club for which there were several special hostesses.

The marriage of Miss Louise Walker, daughter of Mrs. William Walker of Guildford, England, to the Rev. Frank E. Wilson, son of the Rev. and Mrs. William White Wilson, was a service of last night back of which is an interesting romance.

The bride came to America some two years or more ago, and after a visit of some length in New York came on to Chicago to become a guest at the Wilson residence, the elders of the two families having been friends for many years. The Rev. Wilson Jr. met the young guest of his parents shortly after his graduation from seminary. The ceremony was performed at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. Wilson in St. Mark's Episcopal church, of which he is rector.

Miss Grace Wilson, a sister of the groom, was the maid of honor and there were no bridesmaids. Richard Hoffman served as best man and the ushers were Albert E. Wilson, a brother; the Rev. Alfred E. Yardley, a brother-in-law of the groom; Shirley Brewer, and Mark Skinner Watson. The bride's brother, John Arthur Walker of Boston, gave her in marriage. The wedding gown was fashioned of crêpe de chine with trimmings of Venetian lace. Miss Wilson wore white chiffon and lace. The Rev. and Mrs. Wilson will live in Chicago Heights.

The marriage of Kinsley Napier Clarke, son of Mrs. Clara M. Kinsley Clarke and grandson of the late H. M. Kinsley, to Miss Catherine Henley, daughter of the late Judge Henley of Williamsburg, Va., will be celebrated quietly at the residence of the bride's brother, John Henley, at Williamsburg, Va., on Saturday at 6 o'clock. Mr. Clarke and his bride will make Newport News, Va., their place of residence.

The marriage of Miss Emily Frances Kelly, daughter of B. J. Kelly, 828 East Forty-second street, and Mark Aloysius Cronin, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Cronin, 4510 Prairie avenue, will take place at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at Holy Angels' church. The Rt. Rev. Bishop McGavick will perform the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. B. C. Heeney. Miss Katherine Fullen will be the maid of honor and Miss Irma Elmstrom, Miss Ruth Clain, Miss Eleanor Shackley, and Miss Edwina Lloyd will be the bridesmaids. Eileen Pennington will serve as flower girl. James Cronin will be the best man and Vincent Borand and George Kirk the ushers.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Bess Kathryn Gray, daughter of Mrs. Alice C. Gray, 5924 Kenmore avenue, and Edward Philipp Hendricks, grandson of Philipp Jeager, 430 Roslyn place, which took place at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at St. Clement's Roman Catholic church, the Rev. Father F. A. Pempe officiating. Dispensation was given by the archbishop, the groom being a Catholic and the bride a Protestant. Miss Dorothy Gray was the maid and George Hendricks was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gray, Philipp Jeager, William Parker, and Raymond J. Binder witnessed the ceremony.

The Home for Destitute Crippled Children at 1653 Park avenue is to be the beneficiary at a series of four interesting club papers which are to be presented by their authors at the residence of Mrs. Lysander Hill, 173 Chestnut street, east, at 11 o'clock on four successive Wednesdays, beginning Nov. 1. The first paper will be given by Miss Durkee, the subject being "Our Friend the Child." On Nov. 8 Miss Wallace will give "A Forgotten Comedy," on Nov. 15 Miss Elisa A. Stone will present "The Secret," and Mme. Charles Bigot will give "One of My Friends—Reminiscences" on Nov. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Ewen will move into town from Lake Forest this week and will be at the Virginia hotel for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hellyer have closed their summer residence at Brewster, Cape Cod, and have returned to the city with the intention of spending the winter at the Virginia also. Other well known people who have taken suites at the Virginia for the winter are Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ware, 1207 Astor street, who will move from their residence to the hotel this week, and Miss May Buckingham, who has come in from Lake Forest.

Miss Ruby Chapin has gone to New York to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Robertson, formerly of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sands Sosman have closed their summer cottage and have opened their apartment at 1628 Washington boulevard for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Silldorf, 5913 Winthrop avenue, Edgewater, announce the engagement of their daughter, Edna Clara, to Charles E. Olewine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Olewine.

"Johnny" Hand to Mark 80th Year.

"Johnny" Hand is planning to celebrate his eightieth birthday tomorrow. He has made music in Chicago for sixty years.

For twenty-five years Hand's band was a necessity at exclusive social affairs. Chicago's first families gave no balls unless Hand furnished the music. He played for Philip Sheridan, Marshall Field, N. K. Fairbank, and others.

Even now, on the threshold of 80, he plays a little. "They still ask me to play," he said proudly yesterday. "So I take my 'cello and two or three men and give them a little music in the afternoon. They tell me it makes them young again to see me. Most of the people I play for now were children when my band was in demand."

"Johnny" Hand doesn't like the bands now in Chicago. "There are no more good bands," he said. "If a conductor wants a band now he goes to the Musicians' federation and hires his players. The same players play in the same band only a few times."

"Johnny" Hand heads three generations of musicians. He boasted yesterday of his son Armien, "a born conductor," and grew enthusiastic in telling about his grandson. The youngest "Johnny" Hand is only 14 months old, but already the aged conductor sees in him the making of a musician.

Hand was born in Mosel, Germany. He came to Chicago in the fall of 1851. He was brought here by a miller, who, when he found it took 4 German marks to equal an American dollar, told Hand he could not hire him.

"Then I had to paddle my own canoe," says Hand. "It was hard for a while. I played the flute then. I played for the first time on Christmas night in 1851 at a Knights Templar ball in Peru, Ill. I earned $10. I thought I was rich."

D. A. R. Tablet to Mark Indian Trail.

Commemorative of the early Indian trails and the old Green Bay wagon road, superseded in later years by the modern steel trail of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, Chicago chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will erect a tablet in the near future at the base of one of the trail trees which served as guide posts for the early settlers. The tablet, which is the work of Mrs. Philo King, is of bronze and bears the following inscription:

> This Indian trail tree, at the northern boundary of Cook county, is the most noticeable one standing on a highway. There are eleven similarly bent trees in Cook county pointing the direction of the Indian trails. The branch was bent and fastened to the ground by the Indians when the tree was a sapling, over eighty years ago. This tree is near the Green Bay trail, later the wagon road of the early settlers of the 1830 period, followed as a further advance in civilization by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, 1855, and later by the Chicago and Milwaukee electric railroad, 1889. This tablet is erected by the Chicago chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, May 6, 1911, to encourage interest in local history and perpetuate the memory of the disappearing Indian race.

The tablet will be on view today at the Blackstone hotel, where the opening session of the state conference of the D. A. R. will be held. It was secured through the efforts of a committee of which Miss Valentine Smith is chairman.

News of the Theaters.

"A Man of Honor" Is False and Thoughtless.

"A MAN OF HONOR."

A play by Isaac Landman. Presented in Chicago at the Cort Theater, Oct. 22, 1911, by EDMUND BREESE and His Company, Under the Direction of Joe Weber. The Cast:

Judge Amos Kingsley	Edmund Breese
Richard Kingsley, his son	Hans Robert
Geraldine Kingsley, his daughter	Muriel Starr
Porter Kingsley, his brother	Ben Johnson
Sylvia Kingsley, Porter's daughter	Fay Wallace
William Price, an attorney	Ralph Delmore
Burton Wills, an attorney	Edward H. Robins
Court attendant	R. Duering

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

"A MAN OF HONOR" is one of those true to life little things of the theater wherein the artless leading man amiably offers to contribute $9,000,000 to save the reputation of his fiancée's brother, and is scolded by that young woman because he did not think of it sooner. This brother, bereft of parental discipline, has stolen $10,000 from the coffers of the Consolidated, an odious corporation, which threatens him with exposure unless he persuades his father, a judge, to decide the case of Burton vs. the Consolidated, in favor of the Consolidated.

As may be seen, this is a perplexing situation for any jurist. That being the case, it is no doubt impudent for a layman to criticise Mr. Edmund Breese's slim, straight, prematurely gray judge, who is confronted with it in "A Man of Honor." It is even more perplexing than has been stated here. For Burton, the defendant, is none other than the judge's prospective son-in-law, and there are $10,000,000 and the governorship of Montana at stake.

But in the first place Mr. Breese's judge never should have permitted his son to be employed by a litigious corporation like the Consolidated. Moreover, it seems a bit inethical for him to consider a case in which his prospective son-in-law is so greatly concerned. Mr. Breese's judge is a "political judge," too, and he has his eye on the governor's chair, though the unscrupulous attorney for the Consolidated is the boss of the commonwealth.

These being the circumstances, it is not much wonder that Mr. Ralph Delmore as this attorney should call upon him and offer him the support of the organization if he will but give the Consolidated the $10,000,000 decision. Also it makes plausible a highly immoral conclusion in which the judge agrees to keep secret the attempted bribery and, in addition, to hide his own son's pilfering. There is, in fact, nothing to indicate that the profits from the boy's misdemeanor are to be returned to the plundered corporation. When the crooked lawyer walks familiarly into the judge's chambers just before the decision is read I begin to suspect that Mr. Breese is not at all what he should be and that his fainting and fine talk and indignation and sacrifice are merely acting. This, of course, is wrong, as is proved by the name of the play.

Mr. Landman, the author, explains in the advertisements that "A Man of Honor" is a sermon on "parental neglect." Evidence of this is given by Mr. Hans Robert as the wayward son, who flits in and out furtively during the first act, trying to get a word with his busy father. Political deputations and corporation lawyers keep the parent engaged, however, and he has no time for his troubled offspring. As a matter of fact, Mr. Robert could tell Mr. Breese the whole story of his life in the time he occupies vainly trying to make an appointment with him. In one scene, though, Mr. Robert certainly explains to Mr. Breese a few things about a father's duty. It is after he has confessed that he is a thief and Mr. Breese has declared that he will not change his decision to save his son from prison. With much eloquence Mr. Robert argues that he is not responsible for either his birth or his rearing, and he places the blame for his sins upon the way he has been brought up. This discourse on elementary eugenics was loudly applauded by the audience at the Cort last evening.

So there is some superficial excitement at least in "A Man of Honor" despite its falsity and thoughtlessness. Thrills may be experienced here and there by those who like to see an upright judge bidding a briber begone, and later offering his only son on the altar of his judicial duty. Romance, too, is interpolated by the pretty and cooing Miss Muriel Starr and by Mr. Edward Robins, an expert in the impersonation of earnest suitors. Mr. Breese, the star, is as he ever is, and his denotement of masterly men is highly regarded by many persons. To me his acting of these rôles is altogether external. The sincerest and most skillful playing is that of Mr. Ben Johnson as the judge's brother and by Mr. Ralph Delmore as the corporation lawyer. Miss Faye Wallace appears as a prattling ingénue, addicted to the locution "O you!" and Mr. Hans Robert is wild eyed and tremulous as the bad boy who steals and is not found out.

"The Million" a Success of Laughter.

New York, Oct. 24.—The Sun tomorrow will say: "The damage to the pearly tooth of Miss Irene Fenwick having been repaired, it was possible for Henry Savage to produce tonight at the Thirty-ninth street theater his farce from the French called 'The Million,' postponed from last night. In its original form this play is by Berr and Guillemaude. They wrote 'Le Satire,' which served as the foundation for the fascinating 'The Pink Lady.'

"These two French authors have written about a lottery ticket. They started this pledge of fortune whirling through the play with a certain number of the characters in pursuit of it.

"The American adaptation of this strenuous farce proved an unquestionable success of laughter. Never have actors appeared to undergo greater physical effort to create amusement. Rarely have they come through the ordeal with better luck."

The Bijou.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

ONE of the best known playhouses in the country is the Bijou theater, on Halsted street and Jackson boulevard. For almost a quarter of a century, on the stage of the Bijou, despicable villains with tall silk hats and black waxed mustaches have met the palpitating heroine at the old mill at midnight, bound her to the railroad track, and sicked the express train on her.

People go to other theaters more or less in doubt as to what they will behold after they have paid their money at the box office and taken their seats; taking chances on plays is a minor form of gambling. But a patron of the "Beejoo" never has and probably never will take any chances. No matter what the name of the play is, the patron is going to receive what he goes after, and come out well pleased.

The clientele of the "Beejoo" do not go to their favorite theater to wrestle with any weighty problems of sex, divorce, or high finance. They go to see Virtue triumph, Truth vindicated, and Justice forever seated on her throne. In other theaters the plays often end with the solution of the theme presented still in doubt, and leaving the audience to determine its moral lesson.

But not so at the "Beejoo." If the villain is not stabbed, shot, or poisoned in the full presence of the audience, six sturdy stage hands dash in and drag him away to the penitentiary for life, the heroine gives the hero a half-nelson lock around the neck, and the comic man says, "And now they'll be happy forever."

More celebrated playwrights than those who prepare the thrilling dramas for the Bijou may delight in the double entendre, in veiled allusions, and in sneering jokes freighted with sarcasm. There is nothing like this at the "Beejoo." The heroine comes right down stage and stands in the footlight trough when she faces the villain, and, despite his silk hat and his long black broadcloth coat, and his bright red tan shoes and the great diamond twinkling in his red necktie, she says in a voice that echoes from Ashland avenue to the river: "No, Harold Van Nutty, for rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake."

There is no chance for this ennobling line to be misunderstood or dodged by the villain or anybody else. The house rises up and applauds with terrific fervor, and the wicked villain slinks off stage and goes out to the saloon in the alley and drinks his beer alone, as he richly deserves to.

And even the fact that he carries back a glass of beer to the sweet, pale faced heroine, who is his wife, and that he speaks kindly to the sturdy, noble young hero who owes him $5 and is trying to touch him for $5 more, does not remove the moral blot which rests upon him.

He cannot deceive audiences at the "Beejoo" and when next he comes on stage he is hissed when he conspires to steal the gell and have the child—"curse the brat, her squalling will alarm the house"—thrown into the remorseless waves of the icy ocean.

In downtown theaters the star is much talked about and pictured. The property man is the most important personage at the "Beejoo." The audiences there weep over the heroine and hiss at the villain, but away back in the wings stands the real hero of the "Beejoo," Hank Goldberg, the property man.

Hank has trunkfuls of handcuffs and his property room looks like the gunroom of the battleship Delaware. He has great wicked black pistols for the villain and bright, shiny nickel plated pistols for the hero, and cute little pearl handled pistols for the heroine. He has shotguns and rifles for the mob and a big tin bucket with a rosined cord running through it, which is the wolf pack howling around the heroine's prison in the charcoal burner's hut in the forest.

The property man must reproduce East river by moonlight, or the top of the Rockies at sunrise, or Broadway on a busy afternoon all at five minutes' notice. He has to be the front wheels of the midnight express which dashes with maddening speed over the trestle just after the hero picks up the limp form of the heroine in his arms and swings by one hand from the bridge.

The property man has to carry a bottle of mucilage in one hand to stick the villain's black mustache back on when it falls off and, at the same time, with heavy foot he kicks the carpenter's yellow dog to make it howl when the villain says, "So you despise me, ha, ha, my proud beauty, yon cruel and havage lion will soon remove you forever from my path."

But the carpenter's yellow dog is eating the piece of liver the villain brought him from the free lunch counter. The curtain comes down on the heroine clasped in her true love's arms and the audience shouting a noisy but sincere approval.

Mrs. Pankhurst Scores "Machine" in Politics.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—"The women must not copy the men in their methods for electing their officers. They must devise ways of their own."

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst was the speaker, and the occasion was private.

"If the women who have entered the political intrigue apparent in the present election of officers are not careful they will defeat their own ends," she continued. "I feel that the movement is further along in organization in England than it is here. The women of England would not countenance or stand by a 'machine'."

The "machine" referred to is a sixty horsepower piece of mechanism discovered by Mrs. Pankhurst to be in perfect working order on its tryout yesterday. One officer was elected who is said not to belong to the national organization. Her name was not even mentioned above a whisper, since the nominating vote and the electing vote are one. Only mental telepathy or a little manipulation could ever have brought her into the minds of twelve state presidents commanding 162 votes at one and the same instant.

Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch had been under the impression that she was going to secure the position of vice president for the president of the Kentucky league, but she was noiselessly crowded off the boards altogether. Today it was discovered that she is personally paying the hotel expenses of the most of the visiting delegates who cast their votes elsewhere.

The headquarters will not go to Chicago—at present. Miss Mills, state president of the New York society, asked what Chicago had to offer. Mrs. Ella S. Stewart, president in Illinois, said Chicagoans didn't believe in offers. Mrs. McCulloch proposed to the Chicago women that they withdraw the offer, since it didn't seem to be well received. The five eastern states so bitterly opposed to the move did not allow it to be withdrawn, but insisted on taking the vote. New York was retained by a practically unanimous vote. The fight will be resumed next year.

The convention completed is work tonight. The last day was marked by much being accomplished.

Resolutions pledging the association to certain progressive movements were approved and something over $12,000 was subscribed for the work of the association. In adidtion reports of progress in numerous states were heard. Mrs. T. P. O'Connor and Mrs. Pankhurst, English suffragists, were warmly applauded when they addressed the delegates.

Man and his political ways were weighed and found wanting by Mrs. O'Connor. She replied to what she termed the "old threadbare arguments" against woman suffrage, outlined what she declared were typical abuses of man's powers, and urged her sisters to "stand shoulder to shoulder and march forward together."

The Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the national association, declared the last eighteen months had been ones of great progress for women, and in reviewing the recent vote in California contrasted the sections in which the vote on women's suffrage had been strongest and weakest.

Suffragets Burlesqued at Church Bazaar.

"The Suffraget Jury," a burlesque on the votes for women agitation, was played by members of the Dramatic club of St. Mary's Catholic church in Evanston last night in connection with a church bazaar. There was only one man in the cast. Among the girls in the play were the Misses Violet Copeland, May O'Hare, Alice Byrnes, Vivian Sisel, Florence Quirk, Anna Mae Wynn, Olive Stephens, Cecelia Steinback, Eva Keegan, Edna O'Laughlin, Violet Ungers, and Evelyn Kelly. The director was Miss Phyllis Roy. The play will be repeated Thursday evening.

Laura Jean Libbey's Comment and Advice.

The Flirting Husband.

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

[Copyright: 1911: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

DID you ever notice that nine times out of ten it is the extremely polite young man instead of his undemonstrative brother who is wont to take the citadel of the feminine heart by storm?

In summing up his good qualities after he has made his first call, the first thing a girl thinks of is, "He has a charming personality, he is a delightful companion—one has not a dull moment in his society," and concludes straightway that "he would make a darling of a husband."

She is naturally indignant when father will not look at him through the same rose tinted glasses which she does, but uses double barreled spyglasses instead. He reads future trouble in the young man's overpoliteness to daughter's girl friends and has little hesitation in dubbing him a male flirt.

Many a girl, though docile enough in other matters, is terribly headstrong regarding her love affairs. To fall in love with a man seems sufficient reason why she should marry him, despite all remonstrance.

Wit and repartee is extremely entertaining in a lover, but in time one grows tired of it at one's own fireside. What tender, warm hearted, loving wife would want a husband who turned every remark she made into a joke? Would not a wife be justified in refusing to see the necessity of her husband accompanying the charming widow who lives across the street to her home because she chose to run in for a little chat every evening? No matter how well a wife might like the charming young widow, she cannot feel quite happy and unconcerned in noting how much more congenial hubby strives to be to the pretty neighbor than to his wife.

He never appears to notice when she—his wedded heartmate—sits in a draught or whether she has one cushion or a dozen or none at her back.

When one observes the flirting husbands some wives are bound to, one cannot wonder that there is such a sentiment as jealousy springing up like rank weeds, choking and starving the love blossoms in hearts that should only know gladness.

Husbands who have the fatal weakness of slighting their wives to be congenial to other women are treading a dangerous path. It is wickedness for them to tantalize the women who have bound their future trustingly to theirs and whose misfortune is to love them too devotedly.

A woman's life is the joy or sorrow of her affections from the moment her heart has been awakened by love. Her heart is her word. With her love is strong just in proportion to the atmosphere it finds; with tender warmth it buds and blossoms into glorious fruit; coldness chills it until it withers and becomes a wreck.

Two should never wed who do not find their greatest happiness in each other's presence. When either one ceases to be a necessity to the happiness of the other they are no longer lovers. The husband who is indifferent as to whether he is congenial to his wife or not is a poor custodian of her affections. The man who finds an attraction in many women cannot truly love any one of them.

No man should woo and win a woman's heart unless he is sure beyond all doubting that he can and will give her full measure, aye, all the love his heart is capable of holding in return for her affection.

The husband who makes himself too congenial to women outside of his own home has no business with either a home or a wife.

* *

No, Certainly Not!

"Dear Miss Libbey: Would it be proper for me to ask a man I have long respected and loved to marry me? He is strong, handsome, and manly. His only trouble is drink. Do you think I could make him stop? I am very wealthy, while he has only a little.

"ANXIOUS."

No, certainly not! What are you thinking about?

* *

Leave Father Alone.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am a handsome man of 40 and am deeply in love with a perfect blonde. My affection is reciprocated. But for some unaccountable reason her father has taken a dislike to me and has forbidden me to call upon his daughter. We think, perhaps, he objects because of her age (she is 17), but at any rate the objection is not imaginary. The last time I called her father told me what he thought of me, and a minute later I found myself sprawling on the sidewalk. I could win the girl. But what am I to do with her father? Would you advise taking boxing lessons?

"EDGAR."

Better leave father alone, Edgar. There must be some good reason why he objects so to you. Find out what it is and reform. You will then have a better chance of winning the girl.

* *

Is He Right.

"Dear Miss Libbey: Some time ago I made the acquaintance of a girl and kept company with her a short time. We had two or three trifling spats. On one occasion she told me we never could get along. I decided to let her alone, but I have seen her twice since, and both times I have been greeted with smiles. If she is willing to renew the companionship am I right in letting her make the first step?

"BARNEY."

Yes, Barney.

* *

Did She Flirt?

"Dear Miss Libbey: Every evening for a period of twenty minutes two young men, my chum, and myself remained in our schoolroom while our instructor taught another class. As we all are young and jolly, we soon were talking and laughing together. At the close of school several young men, including my brother, escorted us home. I have been going with one of my classmates ever since. Would you call this a flirtation? V."

No, I think not.

YESTERDAY is no more.
Tomorrow is not yet.
All we have is today.
Sorrows are only as deep as we dig them.
Don't dig deep enough to bury yourself.

This philosophy is inspired by the lesson I received a few days ago. A beautiful friend of mine met with what she felt was a great loss. She could not realize that all that happened was for her uplifting, consequently she had been grieving for three months. She told me over the telephone she could not get up the courage to come to see me, but begged me to come to her.

I went, in the rain. Had she been perfectly normal, I assure you, I never would have gone to see her, as I have so little time to visit, playing or rather singing twice daily and writing these "helps to real beauty" every day. But I felt that she needed me, so away I went.

I was repaid in two ways; first, in the lesson it taught me, which I will pass on to you, my friends who read my little sermons; secondly, in the help I could give her.

Three months of weeping had reduced the once lovely blue eyes to sickly, red lidded, washed out little eyes of ugly green. Her cheeks were furrowed with tear lines and purple blotches. The beautiful golden hair had gray streaks over the ears and she had grown stout below the waist, from sitting in a lounging position all day.

All this devastation had been caused by the self-pity she was suffering from and lack of courage in controlling it.

All she could say was, "O, I am so miserable and unhappy." Then I began to laugh at her and blame her for her conceit, for self-pity is the greatest possible conceit.

I told her I could positively cure her of her trouble, as her suffering was more or less imaginary and was within herself. I first took her to a mirror (bless the one who invented them!); I made her look herself over from head to foot and truthfully tell me what she saw. At first she said, "I only see an ugly old woman."

Then I made her dissect herself, from her hair to her feet. Each feature had to be criticised, and before we left the mirror she was a changed woman; she really saw the amusing side of the situation and was laughing at herself, instead of crying. "Now," I said, "I have got you to the spot where you can start restoring yourself to your former natural state."

My first lesson was a success; she was in a receptive mood and was anxious to be lovely to look upon again. I made her promise to get up and out into the open, walk or drive into the country or park, breathe in the free, glorious air given to us all alike, then take her poor, faded face in hand (so to speak) and nourish it again with the pure skin food that I have given out to so many, and bathe her tired eyes with cold tea leaves twice daily. (The tea leaves act both as a tonic to the eyes and an astringent to the lids, making them smooth and tight.)

I told her to use the witch hazel balm to heal the blotches on her skin scalded by her tears, to massage her lips, dried and distorted with sorrowful expresson, massage her drooping chin, and brush her lovely hair back to brilliancy and, if need be, to wash it with a tea made from henna leaves, which will make light hair reddishly brilliant and will darken the white locks.

I had a letter today from this woman, and the difference in her entire attitude toward life is remarkable. She sees how selfish and futile was her grief. She says I would not recognise the careworn, sorrowful woman I left only a few days ago.

She has found out what I learned years ago: that a woman's first duty is to herself, that she may be in a condition of mind and health to help and, if necessary, care for others. To use her own words, "I am once more breathing deeply of God's glorious air and thanking him daily for it, my cheeks are becoming rosy, my skin is smoother and clearer already, my eyes have accepted the cooling tea leaves and shown their gratitude already, and my hair seemed to stand up in respect to you, my friend, for having recognized its weakness and saved it in time."

So, having brought that lovely woman to her own in thought and appearance, I feel that I have saved a soul from selfishness.

That woman will see life in a rosier light; her grievances will be secondary to those of others; she will keep others from letting themselves drop back into the vortex of selfishness. We must keep on the crest of the wave, always ready to help those who need us.

Remember: Our imaginary troubles are always a hundred times harder to bear than our real ones.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

MRS. B.: The old remody of rubbing a gold ring on the stye is a simple way of massaging the congested part and will often remove the trouble. However, the following lotion is also good. Bathe the eye with elder flower water warmed. Do not allow the eyes to get fatigued and avoid late hours.

ANXIOUS: I do not advise you to shave the hair off your arms, for it will come in heavier and stiff. Bleach it by using one-third ammonia and two-thirds peroxide of hydrogen.

CARRIE S.: If the horseradish is fresh and strong take one-fourth horseradish and three-fourths milk, but if it is a little old take one-half horseradish and the same of milk. This is a good recipe for freckles.

MISS H. J.: I advise you not to tamper with the mole on the child's face. The best thing to do is to have it taken off with electricity. I am sending you the recipe for a shampoo lotion for oily hair.

Economical Housekeeping.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Other Celery Recipes.

THE cheapest and most expeditious way of stewing celery, say for a quick lunch, is to simmer it until soft in a small stewpan with just water or broth enough to cover, and then to add the thickening and seasoning and cream, if this is to be afforded. If a sauce is prepared separately, the celery and the sauce as well will have a higher flavor if the celery, drained from the water in which it has been cooked, is partially stewed in the sauce.

Celery au Jus.—Cut the best stalks of celery in strips six inches long, wash in several waters, and parboil for five minutes. Make a brown roux, using one tablespoon each of butter and flour, one-half teaspoon of salt, a pinch of pepper, and a dash of nutmeg. Add a cupful of stock or water, when the roux is well browned, put in the celery, cover and cook slowly for thirty minutes, unless the celery is very tender, then twenty will do. Remove the celery and place evenly on a hot dish. Strain the gravy and pour it over or around the celery.

Celery au Jus [English Recipe.]—Take six or eight heads of fresh celery, remove the outside leaves and green parts and neatly trim the main stalk. Cut to a uniform length of about six inches, wash well in cold water, tie in neat little bundles, plunge them into a saucepan of boiling, salted water, remove at the end of ten minutes and carefully drain. Place in a stewpan with a little fat or oil [quarter of a pint to six heads of celery], toss over the fire for a few minutes, add a pint or a pint and a half of stock, sweet herbs, a carrot, a tomato, a small onion, and a little pepper and salt. Stew for an hour and a half. Place the celery neatly on a dish, and, having strained the sauce [thickening it if desired], pour it over the celery and serve.

A note to this recipe is that "a pleasant dish may also be made by cooking some celery as for celery au jus, then mixing half of it, together with the tomatoes, herbs, etc., with a quarter of its bulk of cream and passing this through a wire sieve, the remainder of the celery being dipped into well beaten eggs and then into bread crumbs and fried in oil or other fat." These fritters, having been drained, are to be placed around a dish, and the puree poured in the center.

The food value of various vegetables is added to by combining them with a batter and frying them.

Fried Celery.—Cut fine celery into pieces three or four inches in length and boil until tender in water seasoned lightly with salt. Drain well and lay the pieces separately to cool on a large dish. Make a batter in the proportion of three well beaten eggs stirred into a pint of rich milk, alternately with half a pint of grated bread crumbs, or of sifted flour. Beat the batter very hard, after it is all mixed. Dip each piece of celery twice into the batter and fry in deep fat until a light brown. Drain and send to the table very hot. Cold sweet potatoes may be cut in long strips and fried in this way.

Celery Sauces.—A white sauce flavored with boiled celery is agreeable with the lighter cold meats. Into a white sauce made of one cup of milk, one tablespoonful of flour, and one of butter, seasoned with a half teaspon of salt and a little pepper, strain a half cup of celery, cut into small pieces and boiled, in a very small stewpan, in just enough salted water to cover. The white or cream sauce should be thoroughly cooked before this is put in.

A celery sauce for turkey is made by boiling a head of celery until quite tender, putting it through a sieve, then adding it to a well beaten yolk of an egg and the juice of a lemon, cooking it with a few spoonfuls of turkey gravy and seasoning to taste.

Celery Stew.—Cook a stalk of celery diced and two onions until tender. Add a pinch of red pepper and salt, one large cup of stewed tomato, a tablespoon of butter, and a very little sugar. Cook until well blended.

Celery may be diced, boiled, and then cooked in almost any of the sauces that are not too highly flavored.

The recipes for cooking celery in the simpler ways have not changed in the slightest in a hundred years, and, in all the old recipes, directions are given as to how to use celery seed to get the celery flavor, this being much more used formerly than now, since celery is so much more abundant and cheaper than of old.

Vast Possibilities of Trade in This Rich Interior Province.

BY GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH. D., LL.D

CHUNGKING, Szechwan Province, China, Aug. 30.—Chungking is far enough from the line of progress and offers peculiar advantages for noting contending forces at work. The foreigner meets the Chinese face to face here. In each community, Chinese or foreign, you may recognize two forces.

Strongest, of course, is the Chinese element. Of the two forces at work among the Chinese the conservative still holds the field. The gunboats, consulates, and missions—they are part of Chungking as barnacles are of a ship. It is hardly fair to liken them to barnacles for that implies that they impede progress.

Certainly the gunboats and the consulate add nothing. Gunboats and consulates do not necessarily go together. But it is significant that they usually travel in pairs in China. And where these two are there the missionary is. Of course this is only another way of saying that not all of China has been "opened up." All China is virtually open to missionaries, but only certain ports to trade.

Big Stick Blow to Missions.

It is said that there were once 50,000 Roman Catholics in Chungking; today there are but 2,000 or 3,000. The decline set in with the arrival of the Big Stick. The whole gunboat idea is inconsistent with Christianity. That which prompts men to go forth into all lands and preach the gospel is no excuse for following it up with a pop factory and a gunboat, even less for demanding that for every Christian killed a life shall be paid.

Dr. McCartney, perhaps the leading American in Chungking, frankly admits that the Chinese do not like foreigners. There has been but little manifestation of this hostility in Chungking, though he says that the women often hear themselves spoken of in abusive terms while passing through the streets.

One thing, however, is true, and it is a fact of such importance that it must always be taken into account—that every move the foreigner has made in China has been uninvited and backed up by force. Every time China has tried to meet force with force she has been defeated and has had to pay a fearful price. China may be likened to a race of huge, unwieldy herbivorous animals which comes in contact for the first time with a race of carnivorous animals. She must either develop claws and teeth—i. e.: she must become carnivorous—or be destroyed.

Foreigners There for Own Ends.

The race of carnivores, the British lion, the Russian bear, the American eagle, etc., have much to say about peaceful intentions. Nevertheless they are in China for their own ends. China does not want them; she cannot help herself. The law of the survival of the fittest decrees that she must change her weapons or be defeated.

Szechwan is a prize. Few equal areas on earth are more densely populated, more blessed with natural resources. It is a tempting bit for the propagandist and the trader. Suppose each had his own way. Conceive of a Christian church in every village in Szechwan, a foreign trader in every town. Imagine all the gold mines at work, important centers connected by railroad, the few existing five foot stone paved trails broadened and graded into highways fit for automobiles.

Rich Country for Trade.

Imagine the hills dotted with telegraph poles and every house within hailing distance of a telephone. In a word, conceive of Szechwan as possessing all that goes with our conception of western civilization. This is not impossible. Szechwan may come to all this. You and I will not live to see it; it may be many generations before it will be converted to our ideals and standards. But suppose all this had come to pass, what would Szechwan be most likely to do next? Would it be happier, more law abiding, more peaceful, more content? Would it mind its own business better?

For the trader, the man who in the name of progress develops resources, Szechwan is as rich a prize as for the missionary. It is a great agricultural province. Its semi-tropical climate gives it valuable yields of silk, tea, rice, sugar, hemp, indigo, vegetable wax, varnish timber and medicinal plants. The land is rich in fruit trees

JURIST DEFENDS JUVENILE COURT

Judge Pinckney Charges "Politics" Fosters Attacks; Addresses Clubwomen.

FAVORS "FAIR" INQUIRY.

Girl Ward Accuses Mrs. Hazel Brunst Further in Trial of Probation Chief.

Judge Merritt W. Pinckney yesterday offered a few exerpts of the other side of the story of the Juvenile court, over which he presides, and which for several months past has been made the object of continuous attacks by President Bartzen of the county board and his appointees in office.

In an address before the Lake View Women's club, 2734 Hampden court, Judge Pinckney gave an outline of the history of the Juvenile court and told of its problems, among them the political campaign waged by the county administration against the system and its subsidiary branches.

Sees Politics Behind Attacks.

"Despite the hysterical attacks which have been made on the Juvenile court system, inspired by political motives, we shall continue to have a Juvenile court," he said. "What is more, the system is going to be benefited by the present investigations, although the motive behind them is political.

"I should like to see an investigation of the court and the juvenile homes of the county launched and carried to a finality by a committee of wholly unprejudiced men and women. I should welcome court actions, if necessary. Then I should like to see the recommendations of the committee incorporated in the Juvenile court act and its present faults eliminated."

Girl Ward Continues Testimony.

Josephine Needham, the 15 year old ward of the Juvenile court who made serious charges against Mrs. Hazel Brunst of Maywood, in whose custody she was placed over a year ago, finished her testimony before the county civil service commission yesterday. She appeared at the trial of John H. Witter, suspended chief probation officer, charged with incompetence.

"Mrs. Brunst taught me to powder and paint my face," the girl said. "Once she took me to a merry-go-round with paint and powder on our faces and big hats on. Several men wanted to take us home. One young man finally did. Mrs. Brunst would flirt with boys on the street."

The witness said that Mrs. Brunst had once lighted a cigar and had given her several puffs. She became sick.

County Officers Hold Girl.

The Needham girl admitted to Attorney Kales, counsel for Witter, that she had been completely in charge of county officials since she ran away from Park Ridge. She admitted also that Patrick Harmon, President Bartzen's investigator, had given her money. Attorney Kales raised the question as to how far the girl's testimony concerned Witter. County Attorney Johnson said that Witter should be responsible for keeping Juvenile court wards in such a home as Mrs. Brunst's. Three or four children were assigned to Mrs. Brunst from the detention home. Josephine Needham was not a charge of Witter's.

Mrs. Jane Skinner, volunteer probation officer, who has known Mrs. Brunst from childhood; Carl Brunst, husband of the accused woman; Mrs. Harriet Sweet, her mother; W. H. Birch, the police officer, and Mrs. Brunst will be called by the defense.

City Chemists Quit Service.

Complaint was made yesterday by Dr. F. O. Tonney of the city laboratory that it is impossible to keep men who are fitted for the work because they are paid better salaries by private firms. J. F. Seiter, chief chemist, and Herbert Salmonte, an assistant, have resigned to take positions with manufacturers.

The Confession of a Neurasthenic

"A MAN might better break a bone, or even lose a limb, than shake his nervous system." The meaning of these words of the poet Southey was brought home, in all of its stern reality, to the author of this notable "Confession."

The story of a nervous undoing, full of human pathos, is here told with a vivid and resistless truth, pointing a lesson of deep meaning—revealing the painful penalty of wasting that great possession, nerve health.

But with this lesson is the joyous record of recuperation, of physical regeneration. During the dark hours of nervous distraction there appeared to this writer the lode-star that lighted the path to a brighter future—SANATOGEN. How it led the way, step by step, to renewed vitality, to greater strength, to better health, to a new happiness, is a story that will infuse fresh hope into the hearts of thousands of sufferers from nervous exhaustion.

Every day the facts of this story are paralleled in thousands of cases in every civilized land, for Sanatogen is everywhere acclaimed as the true reconstructive of nervous systems weakened by over work, worry or illness. YOU will be interested in reading this story, not only because it is dramatically told, with all the skill of a brilliant writer, but because it is sincere—because it is true—because it conveys a lesson and a message that are of vital interest to you.

The Confession of a Neurasthenic

We will send a copy of this remarkable little book free to those who would like to read it. Sanatogen, by the way, can be obtained of all leading druggists, in three sizes: $1.00, $1.90, $3.60. Address

DISFIGURING ECZEMA CURED IN 2 WEEKS

Blisters Broke and Formed Scabs. Nose Covered with Them. Very Itchy. Used Cuticura Remedies. Now Hasn't a Single Mark.

"My nephew first showed signs of eczema on the middle finger, and it came out like a blister. His mother thought he had gotten a burn in some way unknown to her, and she treated it as such. He must have rubbed his face with that hand, as it then broke out on his nose the same way. When the blisters broke, they shrivelled up and formed scabs. His nose was covered with scabs, and it was very itchy. He was badly disfigured with unsightly scabs. At first, his nose was sore, and it gradually became worse so his mother took him to the doctor. He gave her some preparation, and told her to rub the scabs off every day, and anoint the affected part with the medicine he gave her.

"The man must have been insane, as that was extreme torture to the child who was only two years old at the time, and that was two years ago. Well, we decided that that treatment would have to end. I suggested Cuticura Ointment and they bought it and put it on freely every day for two weeks. He had the eczema for four weeks altogether, but was getting gradually worse until they used the Cuticura Remedies, and he was cured in two weeks. He most certainly would have been scarred with the other treatment, but now he hasn't a single mark. Cuticura Remedies cured him in two weeks, and now we always keep them in the house." (Signed) Miss Ida Slavin, 233 South Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 4, 1911.

For more than a generation the Cuticura Remedies have afforded the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. A cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and a box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient. Although sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin, will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 13A, Boston.

Take the Oregon-Washington Limited to the Pacific Northwest

—the New Dairying Country

The last census shows that the states in the Pacific Northwest group grew faster than in any other part of the United States. And the people living far north, even including Alaska, must be fed with the milk products of the cows of these states.

Experts estimate that the net profits on every cow in the Northwest is $50 per cow per year. The gross returns from a good dairy cow, under proper care, are from $100 to $110 per year. The average cost for feed is not over $55.00 per year.

Any man or woman not satisfied in the East should take advantage of the conditions prevailing out there.

CHINA'S SUFFERING.

Dr. Dorsey's dispatch to THE TRIBUNE from Peking briefly but effectively sets forth the sufferings of the provinces in China which have felt the touch of the rebellion. Famine, a terror too well known to the Chinese, and disease, too little combated, have war added to them and China is unprepared to do what in better organized countries can be done to mitigate such sufferings.

China lives so close to the margin, so near to want and misery normally, that when its political conditions produce a war its situation immediately becomes desperate.

THE POLICE INQUIRY.

The results already obtained by the city civil service commission's gambling investigation justify its request for additional funds. It hardly can be doubted that the council will accede. As the commission very well says, in a statement supporting its application, if the investigation is to be fair, nonsensational, thorough, and constructive, it will take time and an effort increasingly difficult for obvious reasons.

The commission declares its freedom from influences and the hearty support of the mayor. So far as it has gone it has done well and may fairly receive the provisional confidence of the public. But it is to be hoped its final accomplishment will be considerably more substantial than the punishment of underlings and petty grafters.

ADVANTAGES OF HAZING.

If a young man of the first year class at the naval academy finds certain educational advantages in standing on his head in the presence of an upper class man who has requested him to do so, it is possible that these advantages would be increased if a few "giggling girls" were present.

Certainly as a discipline the process gains in value when young women are added as spectators. Their presence is not inconsistent with the theory of hazing. If humiliation is good for the young man, then the greater the humiliation the greater the good. If a young man on his head is not advantageously placed for educational purposes, then, no doubt, the presence of the "giggling girls" is not to be desired.

Until this question of profit has been determined the present indignation at Annapolis cannot be understood.

WAR ON THE UNDERWORLD.

Mayor Harrison's order to the police to close a Chicago resort of international infamy and his instructions to "put out of business" half a hundred disorderly flats are measures for which the respectable elements of this community will thank his honor. If he will continue by stamping out all tough saloons of the Heitler type and all dance hall dive feeders and the dives themselves, he will do a piece of constructive reform which will set a new standard in Chicago.

"Personal liberty" involves none of these evils and it would be an insult to suggest that the "liberal" or continental customs of our foreign born or foreign descended population have anything in common with the license of vice or crime. The line is plain, and if there is a firm determination to draw it, Chicago will take a long step toward good government and thank Mayor Harrison for it.

CHURCHILL TO THE NAVY.

The announcement that Winston Churchill has been shifted from the home office to the admiralty does not explain itself. It is suggested that he is put at the head of the navy to do what Reginald McKenna, the first lord of the admiralty, who is given Churchill's place in the home office, would not do—reduce the naval expenses and appropriations.

Churchill's ability may have added strength to the Asquith ministry, but his conduct in the home office, however well reasoned or justified, put a burden on the government. He was the irritant to the opposition, but it is not assumed that this was the reason for the transfer.

However much the advanced Liberals may demand a reduction in naval expenditures, there remains a substantial body of Englishmen who regard retrenchment and economy in naval affairs as suicidal. The revolution in naval construction has enabled rival nations to bring the effective parts of their navies too close to a parity with that of Great Britain.

Nothing in the present condition of Europe justifies British statesmen in an assumption of assured security, and if Mr. Churchill's task be that of naval retrenchment the cabinet change will be regarded by many Englishmen as a preface to national disaster.

ELECTIVE STATE OFFICIALS.

One of the points raised in the suit brought at the instigation of Secretary of State Rose challenging the constitutionality of the state civil service law is as to whether such a law is not an invasion of the rights of one branch of the executive by another—the governor.

The point may or may not be valid, but it serves at any rate to emphasize the folly of our system of electing state officials. There should be one elected head of the executive branch, the governor, who can be held responsible for administration. The rest of the chief state officials should be appointed by him.

The federal government offers the example. There is no more reason why the secretary of state of Illinois should be elected than the secretary of state of the United States. If anything, there is less reason. The governor should have his cabinet, just as the president has.

If we ever succeed in replacing our present archaic document with a constitution framed to our present needs, this should be provided. The people have been afraid to put all their eggs in one basket, because they were not willing to watch them. The advice of Mark Twain is better worth following: "Put all your eggs in one basket—and watch the basket!"

BY THEIR FRUITS—

For the central idea of traction unification, THE TRIBUNE believes there is a warm public welcome. It is pretty generally understood by this time that we are not likely to get the city-wide service we hope for while several traction systems under separate ownerships and managements are operating within the city. It also is conceded that the ideal situation, a conjunction of the highest efficiency of service with the maximum economy, is that of a unified system through a sweeping consolidation.

Thus far Messrs. Insull, Blair, and Cobe in their proposal to combine all the surface and elevated roads will find the public receptive.

But we believe they will also find it alert. There are ideal consolidations and —consolidations as we have found them.

We recently have experienced a merger, and we have been waiting in vain for evidence that it is of any interest to any one but the gentlemen immediately concerned. The public is still waiting for its share of any profit resulting or to result therefrom.

The gigantic move now planned will therefore be received with complete self-control. The public will not erect any arches of "Welcome" until it has a clearer idea of what it is to get out of the consolidation.

It may be that these men of affairs have risen to a sense of public responsibility and good citizenship of which their predecessors fell short. It may be that, consistently with the legitimate profit of themselves and their properties, they propose to accomplish a great public improvement in a great public way.

That would open a new chapter in public service policy and municipal government in America.

It is plain that the city is now at the threshold of a most important project, one that will call for protracted, patient, and very careful negotiation. The initiative of Messrs. Insull, Blair, and Cobe is welcome—but by their fruits we shall know them.

HEALTH IS WEALTH

How to Keep Well, By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Readers are requested to ask questions, which will be printed with the answers. Dr. Evans will not prescribe.

FRUIT AS FOOD.

THE eating of fruit, like working on water colors, is considered a refined indulgence. Those who would consider it improper to launch into a slice of buttered bread outside of home or a regular eating place, will gravely and with dignified viciousness hack into an apple in the office or even in the street.

Fruit probably was the first food of man. It still is universally recommended and eaten. There are those who use it sensibly as a part of their diet; there are others who would make a meal of it.

Many growing children are given an apple for their lunch at school. We have seen young women in office and factory who take little else than an apple or two for their noonday lunch.

Cheating the body by the esthetic looks and savory flavor of fruit is no better than cheating it in any other way.

The nutritive value of fruits is very small. About 80 per cent of the bulk of fresh fruits is water. The tissue building substances, the proteids, are present in less than 1 per cent. Sugars and starches are present in considerable quantities—from 6 to 15 per cent in fresh fruit. Wood fiber, a very important element, averages about 5 per cent. Acids vary from 1 to 3 per cent. Of salts and extracts, there is about ½ per cent of each.

Plums are richest in water and acids, grapes and cherries in sugar, cherries and peaches in fiber, apricots in salts. Bananas are the lazy man's food in all tropical countries. They contain 20 per cent of sugar, 2 per cent of proteid, and some starch and fat. Dried fruits have greater nutritive value, containing less water and considerably more sugar, proteids, and salts.

The value of fruit as a food is in the following order:

1. Because it is appetizing and palatable.
2. Because it is refreshing and thirst quenching.
3. Because of its nutritive properties.
4. On account of its salts and acids.
5. On account of its action on the kidneys.
6. Its laxative properties.

For its appetizing value, fruit should be eaten before meals. Fruit soup, a dish extensively used in Germany but little known in this country, would serve the purpose very nicely.

For its nutritive value, fruit is best taken as dessert at the end of the meal.

As a laxative, it should be taken on an empty stomach, preferably soon after rising in the morning, instead of before bedtime, as many people are in the habit of taking it. An apple can stay in the stomach for three hours, and, if taken just before bedtime, often will disturb sleep. Laxative fruits are figs, raisins, prunes, apples, grapes, gooseberries, plums, and currants.

Fruit should not be eaten to excess, is best eaten at mealtime, and should not be eaten when unripe or overripe. Persons suffering from sour stomach should eat fruit guardedly. Fruits and grains make a good combination at meals; sour fruits and milk do not go together.

Fruit always should be thoroughly washed before eating. Dirt and filth are not more esthetic nor less harmful because they perch themselves on the glowing cheek of an apple or the graceful lines of a pear. Cooked or stewed fruit is easier to digest but not so nutritious.

The "grape cure," practiced in Germany for obesity, consists of an exclusive grape diet. Nothing else is allowed. From one to eight pounds are gradually allowed daily. The significant fact is that the patients are required to pick all the grapes themselves, thus securing the advantages of open air exercise.

To sum up: Fruit is a good adjunct to the diet. Do not depend upon it to build up the body or to replace the daily wear and tear. Eat it moderately. Take it with your meals or early in the morning. When you eat fruit, separate it from the dirt first.

CARE OF SMALLPOX PATIENT.

C. K. G. writes: "Will you please give some directions as to the care of smallpox patients?"

REPLY.

The first essential is vaccination. By vaccination we do not mean attempts at vaccination; we mean vaccination. The second essential is isolation.

No unvaccinated person should come in contact with a case of smallpox. Any vaccinated person can safely associate with a case. No person should associate with a case of smallpox because he supposes his vaccination is all right. He must know that it is all right. Whether or not it is all right should be decided by the appearance of the scar, the history of the vaccination, and the time which has elapsed.

Isolation should always be done in an isolation hospital. If the community does not have an isolation hospital, special police should be employed for the purposes of isolation.

Fumigation and cleaning subsequent to a case are of value. They are aids in controlling the disease, but of themselves are not sufficient preventive.

ADVANCED TUBERCULOSIS.

A wife writes that her husband has consumption. There are tubercle bacilli in his sputum. He is short of breath, coughs once or twice a week, has fallen in weight from 146 to 102. For six months he has not spoken above a whisper. He has fever every afternoon, but is able to be around out of doors. Diarrhea is present. Shall he go to a fresh air camp or shall he be made as comfortable as possible at home?

REPLY.

This is advanced tuberculosis. It is not a case for a fresh air camp. The reason for publishing this description is because just such cases are frequently dragged around, a prey to false hopes inspired by insufficient or misleading information. Some cases similar to the above except for the diarrhea and the throat symptoms have the disease arrested in the arid regions of the west. But a change of climate is worse than useless unless the patient can have at least $100 a month for at least two years, somebody to care for him, and be properly guided and directed.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright. 1911: By the Brentwood Company.]

COMTESSE HENRIETTE DE CLERMONT-TONNERRE is the name of the mysterious French lady who was the principal financial backer of the ex-shah of Persia in his recent attempt to recover his throne. She accompanied his party when it invaded Persia and was present not only at the several encounters which took place with the government troops, but also at his final defeat.

Nothing has been heard from her since then, and a good deal of alarm prevails among her relatives and friends in France concerning her fate, no one knowing whether she was killed, taken prisoner, or whether she escaped.

Gen. Arshad-ed-Dowleh, the commander-in-chief of the ex-shah's defeated army, just before facing the file of government soldiers intrusted with his execution, had a long interview with Mirza-Jaffur, forty miles from Teheran, with a special correspondent of the London Times who had known him well in Europe in happier days. During their conversation the general, who was a graduate of the imperial Theresiana Military academy at Vienne, where so many royal personages have received their education, bore eloquent tribute to the rôle played by the Comtesse de Clermont-Tonnerre in connection with the unsuccessful attempt of ex-Shah Mohammed Ali to recover the throne from his small son, who is still cruelly grieved over the absence of his parents and his separation from them, and who, poor little fellow, would be only too glad to surrender his crown to his father.

The Comtesse Henriette de Clermont-Tonnerre is a wealthy spinster of about 45 years of age who has devoted much of her leisure to travel in all sorts of remote portions and unknown corners of the orient, where some of her adventures have been of the most exciting description. She is a member of the historic French house of Clermont-Tonnerre and a cousin of its chief, the present and eighth Duc de Clermont-Tonnerre.

The founder of the family, Comte Sibaud de Clermont of Dauphiny, distinguished himself in the twelfth century in fighting for Pope Calixtus II. against the anti-pope, Maurice Bourdin, who assumed the title of Gregory VIII. Sibaud de Clermont's descendants acquired the name and arms of the De Tonnerres through the marriage of Bernardin de Clermont with Anne de Husson, heiress of the last of the Comtes de Tonnerre, in 1496.

Among the most famous members of the house was the Marquis Gaspard de Clermont-Tonnerre, who, as field marshal, commanded the left wing of the French army at the battle of Fontenoy. François de Clermont-Tonnerre, bishop of Noyon, was elected a member of the academy in 1694 and founded the prize for poetry which the academy still gives each year. Stanislas de Clermont-Tonnerre presided over the French national assembly in the last days of the monarchy, at the close of the eighteenth century, and was killed in the massacre of the royalists on that sanguinary tenth of August, 1792.

The present dukedom of Clermont-Tonnerre dates from the middle of the eighteenth century, when that first created in 1572 and which had become extinct was revived. The present Duc de Clermont-Tonnerre is one of the best known figures on the French turf and is particularly interested in steeplechasing. He married the eldest daughter of the Duc de Gramont, by the first of the latter's three wives, Isabelle de Beaubeau-Craon. (The Duc de Gramont's second wife was Marguerite Rothschild and his present consort is one of the Ruspolis of Rome.)

The Duc de Clermont-Tonnerre has two little girls, but no son, and the next heir to his dukedom is his cousin, Comte Charles de Clermont-Tonnerre, commanding the Fourth regiment of Spahis, at Sfax, in Tunis, and brother of the Comtesse Henriette de Clermont-Tonnerre, who has been the "angel" in the ex-shah of Persia's recent unsuccessful attempt to regain his crown.

Scotland's ancient and important clan of Menzies, at a meeting held the other day at Weem, Aberfeldy, in Perthshire, elected a woman, Miss Egedia Menzies, as its chieftain in the place of her brother, the late Sir Neil Menzies, who died last winter in Paris without issue, his baronetcy, created by Charles II. shortly after his accession thereby becoming extinct. The choice of a woman to an office of this kind is, I believe, without precedent, at any rate in modern times, and therefore is noteworthy and calculated to interest Scotchmen and people of Scotch descent in all portions of the world.

When Sir Neil died he left all his property to his widow, the divorced Countess of Stair. But by virtue of an arrangement between herself and her sister-in-law Castle Menzies, a quaint and imposing structure on the banks of the Tay dating from the sixteenth century and occupying the site of the foundation of a castle built early in the twelfth century, has passed into the possession of Miss Egedia.

Weem, which is the name of a rugged crag just behind the castle, as also of the village depending thereon, has been in the possession of the Menzies for 800 years without interruption and one of the earliest of the Menzies, lord chamberlain of Scotland in the reign of Alexander III. on the occasion of the latter's coronation at Scone in 1249, was known as Sir Robert Menzies of Weem. In consequence of the destruction of Menzies castle and of all the family charters and writs by fire Sir Robert de Menzies, from whom the new chieftainess of the clan is lineally descended, obtained in 1847 from the crown a fresh charter of castle and lands, which is now in the possession of Miss Egedia.

It is to the Menzies that Scotland owes the larches, the first ever seen in the northern kingdom having been brought thither in the form of small saplings from the Tyrol by Menzies of Culdares in 1738. Of the seven saplings in question two are still in existence, in the grounds at Dunkeld, belonging to the Duke of Atholl, and are the most gigantic specimens in the kingdom today.

The hunting tartan of the clan is red and green, not a very pleasing combination. But the dress tartan is a gorgeous check pattern of red and white, so startling as to take away one's breath when it is worn as Miss Egedia ventures to wear it, in an unbroken garb, from head to foot.

There are several branches of the Menzies family, and one of its members, Frederick W. Menzies, a subaltern of the Second Life guards, married last year in London Miss Hetty Davenport, daughter of the late John Davenport of New York and granddaughter of Gouverneur Morris.

Asta Nowakovitch, the leader of the conspiracy against the late King Alexander and Queen Draga of Servia, to whose revelations I have more than once called attention in these letters recently, has at length laid bare the agreement which he, Col. Maschin, and their fellow plotters made with King Peter. This agreement is in the form of a document in the handwriting of King Peter bearing his signature and dated Geneva, May, 1903.

In it Peter undertakes to rule Servia in accordance with the terms of the constitution, to refrain from persecuting or prosecuting the conspirators, and to pardon and rehabilitate them in the event of their being punished against his wishes by the courts of law. If the conspiracy should succeed he was to pay all its cost out of his civil list. But if it resulted in failure he was not to be saddled with any of the expense.

This agreement was written and signed by Peter on the occasion of his final interview in Switzerland with the leaders and plenipotentiaries of the conspiracy, Nowakovitch and Gentschitch, just before the tragedy at Belgrade took place. It is still in possession of the conspirators, and this serves to explain why, in spite of the pressure brought to bear upon him by the various European courts and governments, King Peter has never dared to bring the regicides to justice or to eliminate them from his entourage, but has, on the contrary, loaded them with honors and dignities.

PHONE COMPANY REFUNDS MONEY

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[To the Friend of the People.]—This is just to remind the public of the very efficient service the Chicago Telephone company gives over its nickel phones.

Last evening I spent one and one-half hours trying to get a number in the Austin exchange, from a phone in the Harrison exchange. I was given the wrong number five times in succession, and each time a nickel was rung up on me and refused to be returned. The rest of the hour and one-half time the busy signal was given, and I then gave up in disgust, took a car and spent 10 cents car fare and another hour and a half to deliver a message which should not have required five minutes with even a half way respectable telephone service.

The phone I was calling had not been in use all evening, and even so, why should the telephone company play the part of highway robbers and not deliver service when it is paid for?

For one I am highly in favor of some sharp competition that will show the Chicago Telephone company where to head in.

M. D. HILL, 423 East Forty-eighth place.

In conversation with the subscriber we find that these calls were made from a public telephone and that he was calling for a four party line station. The busy signal would be accounted for by the fact that the line is busy when any one of the four parties on the circuit is using his telephone. Where a subscriber calls a telephone number and in error receives a wrong number the proper practice would be for the subscriber to signal his operator, advise her of the error, and she will secure the right number for the original deposit.

Where for any reason a nickel is deposited in error, as above noted, and our attention is called to the fact, arrangements are made to refund to the calling party any amount collected in error. On public stations the money is refunded either through our agent or by taking the patron's name and address and mailing the amount direct to the home.

In this case refund has been made the subscriber and we regret the annoying experience and thank him for calling our attention to same.

H. N. FOSTER,
Traffic Superintendent of the Chicago Telephone company.

CARS POORLY LABELED.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I frequently have occasion in the early morning to use the Bowmanville cars going north. At this hour "rush hour" cars are being taken out of service, making it necessary often to leave the car at the Sheffield avenue barn and wait for the next car, which is to run through. It would seem a trifling matter for the company to do what is done in other cities—namely, to attach a "Barn Only" sign to cars which do not run through. A passenger intending to ride beyond the barn could then wait for a through car and have an uninterrupted ride. Also, the passenger's starting point is often a more comfortable place to wait than the barn.

C. B. L.

This matter has been referred to the operating department to see what can be done.

LIGHT AT LAST.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—[To the Friend of the People.]—As a constant reader of your paper, I have been greatly interested and pleased with the kind and prompt attention you have given complaints of any reasonable kind made by your patrons. I therefore take the liberty of addressing you on the matter of an arc light at the corner of Robey street and Park avenue, which has been out of service for a week or more. This is a corner where there is considerable travel, and without this light it is an extremely dark corner, and as the Robey street cars are passing frequently, it seems to me that there is great danger of accidents without a light at this place. Will you kindly see what you can do toward rectifying this difficulty, whatever it may be.

O. M. SMITH, 2232 Park avenue.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Replying to your letter of Sept. 15 and returning herewith letter from O. M. Smith, 2232 Park avenue, I beg to state that the arc lamp trimmer who trims the lamp referred to was laid up on account of sickness. The new man in his place failed to trim the lamp for a few days until it was reported not burning by the police department. The chief trimmer reports that the lamp has been trimmed and burning O. BOTHERED BY BEGGARS.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—[To the Friend of the People.]—On Saturday and Sunday evenings, and occasionally on Saturday afternoons, along Lincoln avenue, between Wrightwood and Belmont avenues, and also along North Clark street for a short distance in both directions from Belmont avenue, one encounters seated on the walks, appealing with hats extended, numerous beggars with no pretense of technically selling anything. This, of course, is in direct violation of the city ordinances, and steps should be taken to prevent its continuance.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Is it against the rule for a woman to work from 7:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., and on Saturdays from 7:30 a. m. to 9:30 p. m., with an hour for lunch? The woman I am speaking of works as a cashier and bookkeeper.

The week day work mentioned above is legal, ten hours each day, the time for lunch being subtracted, but the employer is criminally liable for working the woman thirteen hours on Saturday. The case should be reported to State Factory Inspector Edgar T. Davies, 189 West Madison street.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The alley between North Irving and Oakley avenues, Fulton street and the railroad track, is in bad condition. Cannot something be done about it? It is a shame the way the poor horses suffer trying to drag heavy loads through the bottomless mud.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

PROF. HENDERSON EXPLAINS.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.] —Will my friends in the medical profession kindly notice that I did not, in my Lake Forest speech of Oct. 18, intend to give the impression that doctors and midwives are to be classed as "unscrupulous angel-makers"? This epithet is applied to a group of persons who make a trade of disposing of unwanted infants for a money consideration; I know of no such case where a physician was involved. My address was based on the recommendation of eminent medical and statistical authorities, and on recent studies of European methods.

The American Association for Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality, which will meet in Chicago Nov. 16-18, is led by physicians and it will urge the importance of requiring registration of all births. Whether doctor and midwife should be paid for making returns, and how elaborate the schedule should be, may be open to debate. But it is generally admitted that at least a prompt report of the fact of the birth at a central office is absolutely necessary in order that the public and private asylums of relief may give immediate help when the infant is most exposed to death.

No profession does more for the poor than the medical profession. Its generous members will not, when informed, oppose a law which is necessary to save thousands of innocent and helpless human beings.

CHARLES RICHMOND HENDERSON.

AGAINST DOGS IN CITY.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—[Editor of The Tribune.] —I think it improbable that there are many men or women who are fonder of dogs in their place than I or who have more of the useful kinds than I have, but mine are principally hounds and shepherd dogs out on the New Mexican cattle and sheep ranges, where I have interests, and the dogs are highly serviceable to me and to my neighbors and greatly enjoy themselves in chasing pumas and coyotes. I often feel inclined to bring some of them to Chicago with me, but then I think that in compliance with the law, which should be with us all the first consideration, I should have to keep them muzzled, and if I should defy the law and let them "roam" some one of them would be almost sure to go mad and bite some sweet little child.

During the present autumn and the latter part of last summer more than fifty persons, most of them little children, have been seriously bitten by dogs, and nearly a score of little children have died horrible deaths, after days and nights of indescribable horror and suffering not only on their part but on the part of their parents and neighbors and all who love first their own kind and afterward all creatures.

If the laws are properly enforced and obeyed we shall not need the dogs for protection. Dogs and cats had their places in a former stage of civilization, and have still under certain conditions, but their place has never been in absolute unrestraint in a modern city. If I were not in position to treat even a dog right and at the same time to do my duty toward my neighbor I would have to deny myself the society of the quadruped. I am speaking only for myself in this, but "every one to his or her own taste." But as I really like my dogs, I shall never bring them to this great city.

G. BRITTAIN LYTTLE.

LIVENING UP RELIGION.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Why not the "circus" idea in the church? It is a great drawing card in lodge advancement. Dr. Trimble seems to be on the right track; all people need is to be educated to it. Everything else has been tried. Why not give the doctor a chance?

FRANCES HATHEWAY.

ADULTERATED BIRD SEED.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The following extract is from a letter written by Mr. Mark A. Foote, United States commissioner, to the secretary of the Illinois Audubon society and forwarded by her to the Anti-Cruelty society. Its publication in THE TRIBUNE will doubtless be a warning to the trade, both wholesale and retail, against putting spurious products on the market and at the same time a warning to the consumer who possesses bird pets to examine carefully his purchases for the same:

"At one of the department stores I got a quantity of seed to feed the little English sparrows around my house when the bitter cold weather came. When such weather came I placed the seed where they could get it, and was surprised when I noticed how little of it they ate. They would pick at it very sparingly and fly away. Upon closer investigation I made the surprising discovery that most of the seed was empty hull and foodless! That caused me to speculate upon the bushels of the same feed fed to poor little prisoners throughout this same community, and to wonder how many little canaries were upon their perches, starving, while their sympathetic mistresses were saddened and wondering what made the little things so 'sick' they couldn't eat their food!

"Folks can take care of themselves. They have the intelligence and means to make sure of the quality of their food. Pure food laws are not so necessary to their health and comfort as such laws would be to prisoners, especially dumb ones, and most especially the little dumb ones that have no way of showing what ails them, and that have been robbed of the means to cure and care for themselves!"

FLORA HELM KRAUSE.

WHAT IS THE REASON?

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.] —On Friday the subcommittee of the monetary commission held two sessions at the Hotel La Salle. At the morning session Prof. Laughlin had the floor and the undersigned handed to the chairman, Mr. Vreeland, the following:

"If a citizen, not a banker or prominent business man, is allowed to address this committee the undersigned would request a few minutes for a few remarks. Respectfully,

F. A. WICHELMAN."

He was told that he could have that privilege and he made his remarks at the opening of the afternoon session. He spoke in the forenoon with reporters of the Journal and Evening Post, but in none of the papers of the city is a mention of his talk before the committee or of what he said. What is the reason?

F. A. WICHELMAN,
4802 St. Lawrence avenue.

JUPITER NODS.

O'Fallon, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—This morning I read an article in a Boston newspaper written by a professor of languages in a New England college on "The Grammar of Our Great Papers." He said that "for plain, concise, correct English, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in its editorial matter generally, is without a superior in newspaperdom." A critical student replied that he had detected a grammatical error in the following sentence in an editorial under the heading of "Guarding the Embassies" in my CHICAGO TRIBUNE of Oct. 16:

"The spread of the rebellion in China and especially recent reports of the advance of disaffection and possible revolt near Peking, gives a somewhat dramatic color to a diplomatic incident of recent date."

He says the verb "gives" should be "give," but if the verb "gives" refers to "the advance of disaffection" or "spread of rebellion" we fail to see any error. What has THE TRIBUNE to say?

READER.

It should be "give." It refers to "the spread" and "recent reports."

TAFT WELCOMED BY MINNESOTANS

President Makes Over Fifteen Speeches During Trip Through State.

ST. PAUL GUEST TODAY.

Insurgents Join in Hearty Reception to the Chief Magistrate.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 24.—President Taft today swept through Minnesota, making more than fifteen speeches and stopping at almost as many towns and villages in his progress from Glencoe to this city.

Tonight the president spoke in the Auditorium here, and tomorrow afternoon and evening he will be the guest of St. Paul. On Thursday the president will cross over into Wisconsin, home of Senator La Follette, leader of the insurgents and slated to oppose Taft for the nomination next year.

Cordial Welcome to Minnesota.

President Taft's welcome to Minnesota was cordial. United States Senator Knute Nelson, who has not announced whom he will support in the presidential race next year; Senator Clapp, a La Follette supporter; Congressmen Miller and Nye, regulars, and Congressmen Anderson and Hammon, insurgents, all turned out with Gov. Eberhart to extend a welcome.

The crowds were good and as enthusiastic as any the president has faced. Beginning at Mankato shortly before noon, the president traveled through a rain soaked land, but at the little stations where his train stopped for a few minutes the country people were out with umbrellas and slickers, ready to yell a greeting.

At Mankato the president was driven in an open automobile for more than an hour in a cold drizzle and tonight he shows no ill effects.

Political Comparison Amuses.

The president's speech to the Elks brought forth a good deal of laughter. Senator Clapp and several insurgent congressmen were seated with him at the guest table, and when he rose to speak he compared political conditions in the United States today with conditions in the Philippines several years ago, when the Filipinos had many parties.

Most of the day the president talked about farming.

ACCEPT THREE AS HYDE JURORS.

Only Forty Unexamined Veniremen Out of the Second Panel of Seventy-nine Remain.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24.—Only three of eighteen veniremen examined in the second trial of Dr. B. Clark Hyde, charged with the murder of Col. Thomas Swope, were tentatively accepted as jurors by both sides here today. In all seventy-nine veniremen responded to the summons. Twenty-one of them were excused for various reasons, so there now remain out of the second panel forty unexamined veniremen.

IOWANS HERE VOTE FOR TAFT

Even Democratic Hawkeyes Say Aye 'Because Then We'd Win.'

G. O. P. MEN QUALIFY PRAISE

"Worked Too Long Under Others"; Fort Dodge Called Chilly.

President Taft was "renominated" and "reëlected" yesterday by the Hawkeye Fellowship club, composed of Chicagoans transplanted from Iowa, one of the western hotbeds of insurgency.

If there was an insurgent Republican present at the luncheon at the Auditorium he failed to show his colors, so the question, "Shall Taft be renominated?" was answered by a unanimous affirmative.

Democratic members of the club, even, did not protest, for they were eager to go on record as favoring Taft's renomination, slyly hinting that in Taft's renomination lies the Democrats' chief hope of success in the next presidential election.

"Worked Too Long Under Others."

"Taft is a good, first class hired man," said John O'Connor. "Sure, he has made mistakes, but they have been of the head and not the heart. He has not the ability to go forward and do things independently without making mistakes, but he has the nerve to move forward and in time he should gain ability to do things without the direction of somebody else. He worked too long under others before he was president; that's all."

"'There has not been presented here one reason why Taft should not be renominated," said C. H. Robinson. "True, he lacks executive ability, but he has made some good appointments, regardless of politics, and his position against the recall of the judiciary alone entitles him to renomination. We must not make our judges subject to popular clamor. I am a Democrat and I hope Taft will be renominated by the Republicans, for if he is I think the Democrats will win, but we could do worse than reëlect Taft."

Struck a Chill at Fort Dodge.

E. R. Campbell, a visitor from Fort Dodge, Ia., was introduced as a "Republican, not an insurgent." He said he was for Taft, but recently was surprised to learn when he went out to solicit funds to entertain Taft at Fort Dodge, that "the inner feeling in my section is opposed to Taft." He thought, though, that Senator Kenyon might overcome that feeling.

"Taft is hugging as much radicalism as the country can stand," said C. M. Carr. "The Democrats want somebody more radical, but not for me."

FIFTH GAME.

Today at Polo grounds, New York.
Probable pitchers—Coombs and Marquard.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—After Dame Fortune had given the Giants a lead of two runs right off the reel, Philadelphia's Athletics came from behind and batted out an uphill victory against Christy Mathewson, who never was better than today after almost a week's rest, thereby winning their third straight game in the elongated world's series of 1911. Score, 4 to 2.

If ever that elusive quantity called class told on a baseball field it told today, for in spite of the luck of the game and in spite of the magnificent pitching of their great slabman, the men of McGraw clearly were outclassed so far that every one except themselves admitted it.

There was no star rôle today that stuck out preëminently above all the others, as did that filled by Frank Baker in the last two days before the flood, but to Chief Bender belongs the lion's share of the laurels for this victory, which was considered the crucial one of the series. Defeat for the Athletics would have put the Giants on even terms again with the advantage of playing the fifth game on their own Polo grounds and a chance to gain the lead tomorrow.

"Big Six" in Best of Form.

Six days had the weather man given the New Yorkers to recover from their previous defeats. Almost a week had Mathewson had to restore his arm and the cunning of it, and his work at the start plainly showed that the week had done him a world of good. The Giants had had time to regain the stride out of which they were knocked in that extra inning game of a week ago today, and the Athletics had been compelled to hold their hands all the while, losing the pepper and confidence that comes of knowing one has an opponent on the run.

Then at the outset a scratch three base hit, due to the slippery condition of the turf, gave the Giants a pair of runs that could not have counted under ordinary conditions, and a lot more confidence. On top of that luck broke against the Athletics' attack in two of the first three rounds.

Undeterred by anything, the men of Mack arose in their might and bunched three screaming two base hits off Mathewson in the fourth inning. That collection of clouts turned back the tide of defeat and broke the backs of the men from Manhattan island.

First Indian's Only Bad Inning.

After the first inning Bender never was in trouble and not only held safely the lead which his teammates gave him but outpitched the great Christy by a considerable margin. Seven hits were made off the crafty redskin, but only in one inning did he allow two of them to get together. Mathewson was touched for ten solid swats in seven innings and all four of the runs were earned by clean, timely stick work. "Big Six" gave way after that to make room for a pinch hitter and Wiltse finished the game, allowing one scratch hit in the eighth.

Not one of the misplays on either side cut any figure in the result. Fletcher made all of New York's bobbles and two of them were excusable. In the second inning he lost a chance when Mathewson's quick throw trapped Murphy off second, but Murphy met his death later on when a squeze play with Barry missed fire. In the seventh a bobble of Lord's grounder cost nothing and, in the eighth Fletcher's failure to hold Murray's throw to second served only to let Barry make an extra base on a scratch double.

Baker, who made the only slip for the world's champions, pulled Harry Davis half an inch off first base with a wide throw and lost an awful close decision in a ticklish spot in the eighth inning, but the Indian pitcher disposed of the side runless.

Barry Hitting Hero.

Barry was the hitting hero of the day with a single and two doubles, but Baker came through with a pair of clean two baggers after being struck out in the first inning. When he came up the fourth time with a runner on third and two out in the seventh, Mathewson deliberately passed Frank rather than take a chance of another home run clearing the wall and putting the game out of all reach.

Dan Murphy who hadn't hit a lick in the series distinguished himself with two doubles. Collins lit on a pair of singles and Harry Davis was the veteran whose bat really turned the scale, for he delivered a double to right that resulted in giving the Athletics the lead in the fourth inning.

The crowd while smaller than those of the ante-flood days was surprisingly large, considering the long wait forced upon the fans and the great number of nonresident bugs who had been compelled to seek their homes. There were 24,355 persons at the game. The field was in better condition than any one expected, the infield being fairly firm and the base lines offering good footing. But the turf was treacherous, particularly in the outfield, and many a slip of the spikes was the result.

Macks' Headwork Superior.

There were two plays which featured the defense and indicated the difference in the thinking capacity of the teams. In the sixth inning, with Doyle on first and only one man out, the Athletics pulled an ancient trick on Larry so smoothly that every one in sight of it had to laugh.

Doyle started for second as Murray hit the ball which popped high in the air over Baker's head. Barry and Collins tore toward second base and the shortstop bluffed to scoop the ball off the ground close to the bag and to toss it to Collins. Eddie covered the bag with a rush, went through the motions of catching the ball and relaying it underhand to first base so naturally that Doyle actually stopped near second. Larry turned to watch the flight of the phantom ball to first and all the while the real one was coming down in Baker's hands near the foul line. Before Doyle wised up Baker was shooting the real ball across the diamond for a double play.

In the eighth inning Baker hoisted a little fly back of first base. Merkle, Murray, and Doyle all went after it and got tangled up, letting it fall safe. Without hesitating an instant Barry tore for second base and caught the Giants looking daggers at each other instead of picking up the ball. Murray finally woke up and heaved hard to Fletcher who let the ball go through his mitts into short left.

Play Not Costly to Giants.

Barry kept right on going to third, for Herzog was nowhere near the base, although Fletcher could have recovered the ball in time if there had been anybody on third. It did not cost anything, for Barry was run to death a minute later on Thomas' rap to Herzog, but it made the losers look like bushers.

Here is the way the Giants got the jump: Devore bounded one sharply to Bender and the ball squirted away just out of Barry's reach. Doyle pickled the first ball pitched for what ought to have been a single to center, but as Oldring ran to head off the hit he slipped and fell. The ball rolled to the barrier, letting Devore score and Doyle reach third. Snodgrass, whose appearance was the occasion of no particular demonstration in spite of all efforts to arouse animosity against him, lifted a fly to Lord, and Doyle scored on it. Bender toyed with the enemy no longer. Murray could only hit weakly to Davis and Merkle whiffed.

Attack of McGraw's Men Weak.

From there to the finish the Giants had little chance to increase their count. In the rest of the game three visitors reached second base. One of them was Meyers in the fifth, with one out. The New York chief tried to make third on a short passed ball and was nailed by Thomas. In the eighth Doyle was on first with two out when Baker's wide throw gave Snodgrass a life and let Larry to second. Murray hoisted a foul for the third out. In the ninth Merkle, who had struck out three times in succession, poled a double to right with nobody out. He got as far as third while the side was being retired.

It looked in the first inning as if those two scratch runs were more than Mathewson needed to win on, for he was pitching wonderful ball. He struck out Lord and Oldring with ease. Collins stung a single to center and there was an expectant roar as Baker strode to the bat, but it was hushed suddenly when "Big Six" whiffed the great home run hero.

Squeeze Play Nailed.

Murphy opened on Matty in the second with a double into the crowd. He reached third when Mathewson's throw to second went through Fletcher. Davis dropped a little hit on the third base line and was thrown out on a sensational play by Mathewson, Murphy being held on third. They tried to squeeze in the run after that and Murphy started home on the pitch, but Barry missed the ball and Dan was a dead one, after which Barry singled to no purpose, as Thomas fouled out.

Not until the fourth could the Athletics break through Mathewson's guard. Baker, first up, combed a double into left center. Murphy duplicated it almost to a hair and Davis smashed a double past Merkle. The score was tied and a runner on second with nobody out. The crowd was frantic at the realization of hope long deferred. Mathewson, Merkle, Doyle, and Meyers held a mass meeting near the slab to plan out a new line of defense and let Matty get his grit back. Barry's out by way of Herzog let Davis to third, and he scored on a short fly to Murray, who threw wide of the plate and failed to stop what proved the winning run. Bender grounded out.

Matty Pounded in Fifth.

The Athletics hit Mathewson hard in the fifth, but the first two swats were knocked down. Merkle stabbed one from Lord and made the out himself at first. Herzog robbed Oldring by a brilliant pickup, and there were two out. Then Collins hit one out of reach of all into right, and Baker walloped a two bagger straight out past Snodgrass to the barrier. Collins scored, and Baker reached third on the throw home. Murphy whiffed.

Fletcher's fumble of Lord's grounder gave the Athletics an opening in the seventh, with nobody out. Oldring sacrificed him to second and Collins tried to beat out a bunt toward first, but Merkle got him, putting Lord on third. Mathewson deliberately passed Baker, fearing another home run. Just as the two runners started a double steal Murphy soaked a hot one to right, but Merkle smothered it and retired the side.

SERIES SYDELIGHTS.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The fifth game is booked for tomorrow, in New York.

The Athletics need only one more game, while the Giants must win three straight to cop the big bunting.

Marquard is the hope of the Giants in the last ditch, and Manager Mack probably will send Coombs to the slab, although he has Plank to rely upon if he wants to save up Jack.

The Athletics slipped a cog in the second when Thomas failed to get under Meyer's pop fly close to the plate. It fell safe, but Ira picked it up in time to force Fletcher, who was on first when the thing happened.

Collins did a lot to save a possible upset in the eighth inning by robbing Doyle of a hit over second base between Devore's single and Baker's error. If that swat by Doyle had gone through, the Giants would have had a swell chance to win or tie.

Only two of the hits went into the overflow crowd, and only one of them could have been caught on a clear field. That was Murphy's in the second inning, and it did not count in the run column. Meyers made a circus effort to catch a low foul bunt from Murphy's bat in the eighth inning, diving forward into the sawdust but without reaching the ball.

The speculators were stuck and had to come down on their prices to box office figures, and even then there were a few seats that could not be disposed of. The long interval of rain cut down the interest and cost the players a few dollars apiece, as this is the last game in which the contending athletes have any share.

Before the game the Chalmers trophy, won by Ty Cobb by a unanimous vote of the trophy commission, was presented to the star outfielder by its donor. This function was to have taken place on Tuesday at the Polo grounds, and everything was ready for it, but at the last moment the New York club vetoed the plans by refusing to allow the automobile on the field. This is the first indication of spite on the part of Gotham because Frank Schulte of the Cubs instead of Mathewson of the Giants won the National league trophy.

PLAYERS' POOL GREATEST IN BASEBALL'S HISTORY.

Athletics and Giants to Divide $127,910.61, Which Is Far More than in Any Other Series.

Players of the Athletics and Giants teams will divide the greatest amount of prize money when the world's series is finished that has ever been cut up among players in the history of the game. The players' pool closed after yesterday's game, for they cut into only the first four games, and the amount to be divided is $127,910.61.

This purse is divided on a basis of 60 per cent to the winning team and 40 per cent to the losers. It means that the team that wins the title will draw $76,746.36, and the losing team will get $51,164.24. There are twenty-one players eligible on each team, which means that each player of the winning team will draw $3,654.58 and each player of the losing team will get $2,436.39.

The greatest amount in previous years was the pool of 1910, when the Athletics and Cubs played. They divided $79,071.93, of which the Athletics got $2,062.74 each, while the Cubs got $1,388.20 per man. So the losers this year will get considerably more than the winners of the previous year. In 1909 members of the Pittsburgh club drew $1,745.86 each for their victories over Detroit.

Bloomers Return to 3 Eyes.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Harmony, unexpected peace, and tranquillity marked a session of the committee, selected at Chicago two weeks ago to choose an eighth team to be represented in the Three Eyes league in 1912, held here today. Bloomington was unanimously selected from a field of four candidates, including East St. Louis, Cedar Rapids, Decatur, being represented here at the meeting, which occupied five hours' time.

JACK JOHNSON PLEASE NOTICE.

George Bell, Another Black 'Un of Mammoth Proportions, Being Groomed to Meet Champion Heavyweight.

Jack Johnson better steer clear of Chicago. There loomed up yesterday in this town a "black hope," not a white 'un—whose ambitions are big. In fact, there isn't anything small about this newest arrival. George Bell is the name of the aspirant for the title possessed by "Lil Arthuh." George confesses to having spent nineteen years in this world, most of the time on a cotton plantation in Georgia. But that isn't the big thing about him. He is 7 feet 7 inches in height and weighs 327 pounds. His manager, Stephen Mooney, says he picked up Bell three months ago at Zebulon, Ga., and that he thinks he has the next world's champion in the negro. Bell has been boxing for only a couple of months, so he isn't ready for the championship yet, but Mooney thinks he has the talent, at least the size, to beat anything that ever happened in the pugilistic line.

ATHLETICS' CLASS BRINGS VICTORY

Cobb Says World's Champions Win Because of Nerve and Confidence.

BENDER BESTS "BIG SIX."

Matty, Sent to Slab Once Too Often, Batted by Champions for 10 Hits in 7 Innings.

BY TY COBB.

[Copyright: 1911: For The Tribune.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—After a terrible siege of rain which dampened the ardor of the fans, the fourth game of the world's series of 1911 was played in Philadelphia today under perfect weather conditions and the Athletics triumphed, 4 to 2, over the Giants.

The Athletics demonstrated their ability in anothe angle of the game of baseball today by fighting an uphill battle, coming from behind and overcoming the two run lead the Giants secured in the first inning. They stuck to their guns and routed Matty and the National leaguers. I don't mean that Mathewson was knocked off the slab, but the Athletics came mighty near sending the star of the Giants to cover as they were pounding away and every man who walked up to face the peerless pitcher made the park resound with the crack of the bat as it collided with his offerings.

There were many hard hit balls in today's contest. The total of ten hits off Matty in seven innings does not really signify how little he puzzled the Mack batsmen. The decisive manner in which they went after Matty was the real feature of the game. Then after they had become base runners, the daring way in which the Athletics traveled the base paths showed conclusively that they are the Giants' superiors in every line of play.

Bender Makes Game Fight.

To Bender belongs the lion's share of the glory in winning today. The nervy way that he stuck to his task and shut the Giants out without a run after the first inning when it looked so dark for him and the Athletics was beautiful. It was in the initial period that the New Yorkers showed their only real class of the entire 1911 series and it is a great tribute to the Athletics' pitchers to realize that a team, representing the best in the National league, has been held almost powerless by the three pitchers who have faced them in the four games.

This first inning today was the only one in which the Giant batters showed any mastery at all over the American league pitchers. It goes to show that the Giants are not strong offensively or that we have superior pitching in the American league.

Another noticeable feature was the lack of "come back" in the Giants' play. They are unlike the Athletics. When the Mackmen were behind they were slashing and smashing away at the ball, every man going to the plate with supreme confidence and taking his good, healthy swing. This brought results. The Giants, when they were behind, seemed to make no extra effort to rally. Their style did not change one bit from their general play. They seemed to go down in defeat with no resentment.

Matty Works in Vain.

It is pitiful to see a wonderful pitcher, such as Mathewson has demonstrated himself to be, being forced to quit before the winning fire of the Athletics. He showed himself so willing to work and tried hard to bear the brunt of the fight. It makes one almost wish that such a hard worker could be returned the victor.

Mathewson's case, to my mind, follows the old adage, "You can send the pitcher to the well once too often." He has borne the brunt of the fight, having been sent to the mound three times in the four games played. He showed his true mettle in the first game in New York, but in the succeeding battles he did not have the stamina. His reserve power was lacking. He started in brilliant style, but soon weakened. It was plain to a close observer that Matty had lost the snap to his curves. The Athletics refused to permit him to get them "in the hole" and set out to hit the first ball he sent over, which they succeeded in doing often.

Where the Athletics have the greater strength is in every man who faces a Giant pitcher being dangerous and hard to dispose of. Every one can be counted on to hit the ball hard and is feared, while the Giants have about six men whom you can easily count on to strike out, pop up, or bound easy chances to the infield.

McGraw Slinks to Cover.

A noticeable incident was McGraw's failure to coach after the sixth inning. Whether he wished to say a few kind (?) words to the offending members of his club or the humiliation of defeat was too much, I refused to try to determine. No one knows but the New York manager.

To my way of thinking the series is all but over. McGraw's chances are now extremely slim. The Athletics should win tomorrow, ending this series, barring sensational pitching, as the Giants seem to be unable to score on the Mack twirlers.

Tonight it looks as if the old adage of the team drawing the first blood in a series are winners is to be shattered in this series of 1911. The Giants won the first game, but the Athletics now are almost certain to win the series.

E. P. S.

The only logical plan among a thousand and one that have been suggested to insure interleague contests against the occasions of scandal is the shortening of the schedule of the regular season so as to give the contesting clubs and the national commission time to arrange and fit out for the postseason festivities. But this plan makes no appeal to the magnates, or certain of them, for an obvious and not particularly edifying reason.

Another thing, why is it necessary for the national commission to wait until after what is called the "absolute cinching" of the pennants in both leagues before it even presumes that a world's championship series is going to be played by the two clubs so strongly indicated by the figures? Why should any false notion of "courtesy" militate against the taking of businesslike precautions? It seems like waiting until the flames break through the roof before calling out the fire department.

"FOR THE GOOD OF THE GAME."

Cop the other one, Mr. Gillicuddy.

If you want to see any more of the sordid side of the national pastime than the break in the world's series has afforded you, remember it is going to be a long winter and the National league will hold two meetings, one to fight over the election of a president and the other to fight over the adoption of a schedule.

Frank Chance's promise to get back in the game next season is a comforting thing for Cub fans to contemplate. As one of them puts it: "We never expect to see 'second division' baseball on the west side as long as Chance has anything to do with it."

M'ALEER HAS TWO LINES IN WATER

Fishing for Stahl to Play First Base and Wants Griffith as Manager.

ANGLES TO BOLSTER TEAM

New Boston Magnate Thinks Pair Would Be Great Aid in 1912 Pennant Race.

BY SAM WELLER.

If Clark Griffith isn't retained as leader of the Cincinnati Reds next year he is likely to be reclaimed as a leader in the American league. This bit of information was gained from an impulsive remark made by Jimmy McAleer, who will be the new president of the Boston club, while fanning with a crowd of rooters yesterday afternoon. He gave expression to his enthusiasm and loyalty to Griffith with the remark that "If he doesn't manage the Cincinnati club, he can come and manage Boston. I would like to have him."

McAleer with Robert McRoy, present secretary of the American league, has bought an interest in the Boston Americans. McAleer is to be the president and has laid aside the uniform, declaring that he will have some one else manage the team. So far no one has been appointed and the job seems to lie between Clark Griffith and Jake Stahl. McAleer also admitted he had talked with Stahl for a long time on Monday night and had been practically assured that Jake would return to the game and play first base for Boston next summer.

McAleer has been in town for a couple of days waiting for the start of the Comiskey hunting party, and left with the Old Roman and his huntsmen at 6 o'clock last night for Mercer, Wis. They will arrive early this morning, and expect to slaughter a hundred or more partridges before lunch time.

President Murphy of the Cubs was an invited guest for the hunting party, but was forced to decline because of a severe cold that took hold of him just after the White Sox won the fourth game from the Cubs. Murphy was able yesterday to go down to his office for the first time since the games ended. He held a long conference with Manager Chance in the morning, for the Peerless Leader is to depart today for California to spend the winter on his ranch.

Before Comiskey and his party left last night a telegram was sent to Ban Johnson, president of the American league, who is attending the world's series. The message instructed the league boss that he would be expected to leave New York tonight and join the hunting party at once, showing that the huntsmen expect the world's series to be all settled by tonight.

SEES ATHLETICS AS SURE VICTORS

Queensberry Certain Mackmen Will Retain the World's Honors.

BAKER AGAIN BIG FACTOR

Marquis Says Fourth Contest Is Most Entertaining One of Entire Series.

BY THE MARQUIS OF QUEENSBERRY

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—First impressions are best. I had an idea that the Athletics would win the game today. Why? I can't tell you. The only thing is that I liked the looks of them. When I go to a race meeting I always go to the paddock and look over the horses. I don't take any notice at all of the betting and if I see a horse trained to the inch, with an Ormond face, I put my money on him. I am afraid I did the same today.

I met an enthusiastic New York Scotchman who wouldn't think of anything but that the Giants would win. In his funny Scotch way he became rather rude and I had to push my hand in his face and ask him not to try to get the money too quickly. We came from New York together to see the game.

Three times did he hit me over the head with an umbrella, taking my face for the ball. Equally three times I went into his pockets for the sum of 33 1-3 cents, which altogether made up the dollar that he owed me and which I considered he owed me from the moment the game started.

Contest Full of Interest.

It was one of the most interesting baseball games that I have ever seen. When I arrived I really sincerely hoped there might be a great scrapping match. To a man who is fond of boxing, the moment you see husky men moving about you begin to think what they might do if they suddenly threw themselves about a bit. What, for instance, would make a better match than Snodgrass vs. Baker.

However, to be serious—not only serious but rational—one came to the game today expecting a great sensation. I am afraid that I am a bigger fan than the whole lot of them put together. I kept on sprinting up and shouting "Baker, Baker, Baker." I don't know why, except that last time I came here the only real excitement that I got was Baker.

The Giants in the first inning showed up wonderfully. I really was frightened as to the final outcome, especially considering that I had a small piece of silver, weighing at least three ounces, on the Philadelphias.

Baker Again Big Factor.

My Scotch friend began to think that the money was in his pocket; in fact, he wanted to go out and buy me a very large glass of whisky.

This I refused to, because all of a sudden Baker of the Athletics came to himself with a hit that I shall remember for many a long day. He suddenly became a factor in three runs and a cheer arose from the Philadelphians which is still ringing in my ears.

My Scotch friend began making mysterious movements towards the outlet of the park, but having been born a few days before the day before yesterday I counted my money before he went out to see the new moon. It was a great relief to me, for as a matter of fact, the stake meant my dinner.

I shall be only too delighted to attend the match tomorrow and I think I know a little bit more than some of the muggy fans who sit up there and watch the game. At any rate, the money I won today is there for anybody else to win, as long as they don't choose the Athletics.

DOUBLE HEADER FOR H. S. TEAMS

Attraction Scheduled Saturday Afternoon on Marshall Field—Lane Star Hurt in Scrimmage.

The first double header in the Cook County High School Football league will be staged on Saturday afternoon at Marshall field when University High and Wendell Phillips meet and Hyde Park tackles Lane. The first game at 1 o'clock will be followed by the Lane-Hyde Park contest. Lane suffered a setback yesterday when one of its star ends, Apelt, was cut badly on the head and face during the practice scrimmage with the scrub team. It is doubtful whether he will be able to play on Saturday.

Bad Outlook for Gophers?

Pat Page's freshmen, using the plays which the former Maroon captain saw in the Minnesota-Nebraska game at Minneapolis on Saturday, went down to defeat, 19 to 0, before the same varsity team which humiliated Illinois on Saturday. The youngsters tried a number of trick plays showing the skill of the Gophers, but in nearly every instance they failed to gain ground.

De Paul Suffers Setback.

Another name was added to the injured list at De Paul yesterday, when Corey, a heavy lineman, sustained a sprained ankle in a scrimmage. Owing to injuries to Danne and O'Shaunessy Wilhoit has been shifted to one half, while Larkin is assigned to the other half position.

AT THE BILLIARD ROOMS.

At Bensinger's Ford [115] lost to Burmeister [140], 140 to 109. Nickey and Davison tonight.

Van defeated Krulewich, 50 to 34, in the three cushion tournament at Mussey's. Krulewich and Wadsworth tonight.

In the three cushion tournament at Weeghman's Scott and Perry [36] defeated Kuhn and Partridge [37], 36 to 17. White and Hyatt [44] vs. Sutcliffe and Fisher [37] tonight.

Herbert Shaw won the second game in the Illinois pocket billiard championship at Hemmer's, defeating Maj. White, 100 to 79. Eash and Dean Demarest tonight.

Two games were played in the three cushion tournament at Stillson's, Holly [43] defeating Hanks [50], 43 to 39, and Mack [45] defeating Terry [38], 45 to 32. Games will be played today at 2 and 8 o'clock.

Murray was retired at first by Davis, unassisted. Merkle struck out on three pitched balls.

Two runs, two hits, no errors.

ATHLETICS—Lord fanned on three balls, the first one being a foul. Oldring also struck out. Mathewson struck both men out on seven pitched balls. Collins singled to center. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning.

Murphy took a long lead off second and Mathewson, in attempting to catch him, made a wild throw to Fletcher, Murphy taking third. Davis dropped an easy one in front of the plate and was thrown out at first, on a close decision, Mathewson to Merkle. It was a pretty play by Mathewson. Murphy attempted to steal home, but Barry missed the ball and Murphy was run down by Meyers. Barry made an infield single. The ball rolled along the left field base line, Mathewson and Herzog waiting for it to roll foul, but it stopped on the line. Thomas fouled to Meyers.

BENDER (PITCHER)

bleachers simply went wild. It was one and two, a man on second, and none out. Murphy scored on Davis' double to right. The cheering which began when Baker made his two base hit continued for several minutes. Davis reached third on Barry's out, Herzog to Merkle. Davis came home on Thomas' fly to Murray. This put the Athletics in the lead, 3 to 2. Bender was out at first on a sensational pickup and throw by Fletcher.

Three runs, three hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning.

GIANTS—On a wonderful pickup and throw of a slow grounder Fletcher was retired at first, Baker to Davis. Meyers drove the ball to right field for two bases. On a short passed ball Meyers attempted to take third, but was out on a beautiful throw, Thomas to Baker. Mathewson was given a base on balls, the first of the game. Devore raised a fly to Lord and was an easy out.

ATHLETICS—Lord was out at first on an easy bounder, Merkle to Mathewson. Herzog made a pretty stop of Oldring's hard grounder and got the runner at first. Collins drove a single to right, and Baker came to the plate. On the first ball pitched he hit to right center for a double, scoring Collins. Baker took third on the throw-in. Murphy struck out.

One run, two hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning.

GIANTS—Doyle was given a base on balls. Snodgrass was called out on strikes, not hitting at a single ball. On Murray's foul fly to Baker Doyle was doubled up at first. It was a stupid play by Doyle and was partially due to bad coaching. Barry was partly responsible for the play, as he made a bluff to scoop an imaginary grounder.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

ATHLETICS—Herzog made a sensational pickup of Davis' hard grounder and got the runner at first. The New York third baseman was given a great hand. Snodgrass misjudged Barry's long fly and the Athletic shortstop was credited with a two base drive. Barry reached third on Thomas' hit to Fletcher. Thomas died at first. Herzog threw Bender out at first.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Seventh Inning.

GIANTS—Merkle struck out for the third time. Herzog lifted a high fly to Oldring and was out. Fletcher drove a single to center. Chief Meyers was an easy out, Collins to Davis.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

ATHLETICS—Fletcher fumbled Lord's grounder long enough to allow the batter to reach first. Oldring placed a pretty bunt down the first base line and was out, Merkle, to Doyle. Collins bunted and was out to Merkle unassisted. Baker again stepped to the plate and there was cheers for him to knock the ball over the fence. Four wide ones in succession were given to the Athletic's third baseman and he walked to first. Murphy drove a hard grounder to Merkle and was out.

No runs, no hits, one error.

Eighth Inning.

GIANTS—Becker went to bat for Mathewson. Becker was thrown out, Collins to Davis, on an easy chance. Devore drove a beautiful single to left. Capt. Doyle hit to Collins and forced Devore at second, Barry getting the putout. Baker momentarily fumbled Snodgrass' hard grounder and the runner was safe at first. Murray lifted a high foul which Thomas took care of.

No runs, one hit, one error.

ATHLETICS—Wiltse went to the slab for the Giants. Capt. Davis was the first man to face the New York left hander. He was retired on three pitched balls. Barry doubled to right and went to third on Fletcher's muff of Murray's return of the ball, which was a trifle high. Fletcher was not able to reach the throw. On Thomas' hit to Herzog, Barry was run down between the home plate and third, Herzog getting the put out. Thomas went to second on the play. Bender was out at first on an easy bounder to Merkle, unassisted.

No runs, one hit, one error.

Ninth Inning.

GIANTS—Merkle after fouling one ball doubled to right. Herzog was out on a grounder, Baker to Davis, Merkle taking third. Fletcher lifted a fly, which Collins took care of. Meyers was out on the first ball pitched, Collins to Davis.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

EVANS FACES TEE IN BIGGEST GAME

"Chick" Puts Away Golfing Togs and Starts Business Career Today.

DECIDES TO SELL BONDS.

Remarkable Period on Links Closes After Record Is Set for Traveling.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Last night Charles Evans Jr. emptied his grip of his golfing togs and filled it with 8 per cent preferred Dumdum reservoir bonds, a variegated bunch of investment securities, and a choice assortment of Air Line railroad bonds. Today he will start his business career going over the financial links as the representative of Allerton, Greene & King, being connected with the sales department.

"Chick's" decision to remain in Chicago instead of accepting a position in Boston will be welcome news to Chicago golfers. While he does not expect to play as much as in the past, he doubtless will appear occasionally in local tournaments.

Six Years in Competition.

With the storing of his clubs for the winter Evans finished his sixth year of competitive golf, and it was one of the most remarkable in the career of any American amateur. Starting in March, he competed at Atlanta, played at Jacksonville, Savannah, Birmingham, and won the united north and south tournament at Pinehurst. Then he had the honor of playing with President Taft at Washington.

Evans sailed for England April 29 and competed in the British amateur championship at Prestwick, also visiting the famous courses of St. Andrews, Muirfield, Carnoustie, North Berwick, and Troon. Subsequently he competed in the British open tournament at Sandwich, Kent, finishing in eighth place. He was invited to compete in the coronation foursome and played with John Ball, the former British amateur champion. He also played at Walton Heath, Mid-Surrey, and other English courses. Crossing the channel, he won the French amateur championship at La Boulie and finished fifth in the French open championship at the same course. Going back to England, he visited Hoylake, Formby, and Leasowe.

Plays in National Event.

Arriving in the United States on July 20, Evans competed in the Essex county open event, and from there hurried to Detroit, where he played in the western amateur championship. Back on his own stamping grounds, he won the Chicago city championship, was runner up in the Glen View tournament, and won those at Idlewild and Lake Geneva. Then he chased back east and was a semi-finalist in the national championship at Apawamis, after which he played at the National course and was runner up to Hilton in the invitation tournament.

Evans won the tournament in Vermont and subsequently played at Troy, Schenectady, Albany, Buffalo, and then took part in the western Pennsylvania tournament at Pittsburgh. His season's play ended by taking part in several of the foursomes, in which George Duncan played around the local golf courses.

EIGHTEEN CARS IN MOTOR RUN, WHICH BEGINS ON FRIDAY A. M.

Ten Entered in the Touring Class and Eight in Roadster Division—Contestants Meet Tonight.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

When the lists officially closed with the checking up of yesterday's mail, eighteen cars of two classes were found to have been entered for the Chicago Motor club's 1,400 mile reliability run that starts Friday morning and touches five states—Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and Michigan. Officials of the club had not counted upon more than sixteen starters, but two additional nominations were received yesterday, H. E. Halbert naming a Grout and Paul Strauss a National roadster. The latter named is a privately owned machine. Both were entered in the roadster class for the Van Sicklen cup.

The final count shows ten machines in the touring car division and eight in the roadster class. The entries and drivers follow:

THREE HURT IN MOTOR EVENT.

Spectator, Driver, and Mechanician Are Injured in Ten Mile Race at Janesville.

Janesville, Wis., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Edward Austin, a 55 year old spectator, was severely injured; Grover Horn, driver of an Overland car, was bruised badly, and George Parker, mechanician of a Buick car, was also hurt as the result of accidents in a ten mile race today. The Overland car ran into a bank on the second lap and broke an axle. In the fifth lap the Buick car did the same trick, hitting a spectator, and then righting itself, but losing its mechanician. It continued the race, winning the purse of $500. Herman Prielipp was the driver of the successful car.

GLIDDENITES AT CORDELE, GA.

Day's Run from Atlanta Is Successfully Accomplished—Governor Accompanies Tourists.

Cordele, Ga., Oct. 24.—With cheering crowds lining the streets the Glidden tourists reached here today after a successful run from Atlanta. The noon control was at Macon, where the tourists spent a couple of hours. They were met several miles out of Macon by one hundred cars, which piloted the tourists into the city. The Gliddenites were entertained here tonight at the Elks' club with an elaborate luncheon. Gov. Hoke Smith accompanied the tourists to this city and made an impromptu speech tonight on good roads. Tomorrow's run will be to Live Oak, Fla.

FOUR PURPLE PLAYERS HURT IN SCRIMMAGE WITH SCRUBS.

Half Back Lamke, Capt. Reese, Wells, and Gruhn Sustain Minor Injuries at Evanston.

Caustic criticism of the Northwestern football players by Coach Hammett because of their apparent lethargy in scrimmage work against the scrubs led to more vigorous play yesterday and as a result four of the varsity men are disabled. Half Back Lamke twisted his neck, Capt. Reese sustained a sprained neck and hurt his shoulder, while Gruhn and Wells each twisted an ankle. Lamke may be out of the game for two or three days.

Hammett made his comment after the second team, using Wisconsin plays, had scored a touchdown and even worked the shoestring trick. The defense men were working badly and the coach roasted them. When the scrimmage was resumed the varsity players went in with such vim that the four injuries resulted.

Hammett still is looking for a capable kicker. Gleason, who has shown good form at times, was unable to do satisfactory work yesterday.

ON THE BOWLING ALLEYS.

Bull Frogs rode over the Rubinis in the Colonna Bowling league last night, winning three straight in spite of the fact the losers imported Bill Flenner from the loop and had him average 211 2-3. The Bull Frogs counted 926, 973, and 880, their opponents getting 859, 906, 861. The Peppers won three from the Dulces in the other series, but had a narrow shave in the last battle, when they landed with two pins to spare. Woodbury just nosed over the 200 average.

Mahoney Quits Gaelic A. A.

Edward J. Mahoney, president of the Illinois State Gaelic Athletic association, resigned last night at a meeting of the delegates at the Victoria hotel. Failure on the part of the members of the association to abide by the ruling set down by Mahoney is given as the cause of his withdrawal from the organization.

Father of Frank Gotch Buried.

Humboldt, Ia., Oct. 24.—The funeral of Frederick Gotch, 80 years old, father of Champion Frank Gotch, was held from his residence here today. The elder Gotch was born in Germany, coming to America in 1868 and to this county in 1865. He was a veteran of the civil war. He is survived by a widow and seven children, of whom the wrestling champion is the youngest.

Greatest stock of good suits in the country; fancy weaves, 2d floor; blue and black and function clothes, 3d floor; young men's, 4th floor. Every fabric that's worth showing from all over the world.

YOU'VE seen the "button-through" idea in overcoats; a new idea a year or so ago; now it's applied on many models—Raglan, box-back, ulsterette; good idea, too. Gives a smart touch to the garment. You can get overcoats with the fly front, of course; some men want that; good-looking overcoats, too. It's a matter of taste. They're all here; thousands of them; up to $50.

Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes, as we sell them, are extreme-value clothes; the fabrics, the other materials, the tailoring, all express real value to you. You'll get the value out of them, too. Suits and overcoats, $15, $18, $20, $25, $30, $35, $40, $50.

Young men take kindly to these new English models in suits. There's something about the soft roll of the lapel and the drape of the unpadded coat that gives just the young touch to the suit that swagger young men want. Some lively overcoats, too. $15 to $40.

There's a good idea in this new English model Johnston & Murphy shoe; a circular seam lace shoe, with broad heel. We think well of it; we'd like to have your opinion on it; $7. Others of this make to $10; and plenty of good shoes, $3.50, $4, $5, $6.

CASH SALES FAIL TO RALLY WHEAT

Futures Close Lower, Influenced by Weak Cables and Large Receipts.

RUSSIAN YIELDS SMALL.

Coarse Grains Show Firmer Undertone; Big Hog Arrivals Affect Products.

Further liquidation in wheat by some of the eleventh hour bulls who got caught with high priced wheat caused a further reaction in prices yesterday. Near the close there was a sharp rally, but net losses for the day were 1-16 to ¼@⅜c. Lower cables from Liverpool, big receipts northwest, and a big increase in world's visible stocks were the chief factors.

Cash sales here were 515,000 bu, including 250,000 bu No. 2 red and 250,000 bu No. 2 hard to outside mills, and cash prices here were firm relatively, but the better milling demand did not cause much buying enthusiasm in the pit. The milling demand southwest was less active, and country offerings were reported liberal, the recent high prices having stimulated selling by the farmers.

Foreign Markets Are Heavy.

Liverpool was ⅝@¾d lower. Favorable Argentine advices with Russian reports indicating the probability of larger shipments were bearish factors abroad. Broomhall's Russian agent cabled the maximum Russian crop would be 310,000,000 bu short of last year, but this did not have much influence apparently. Australian advices were bullish also, the crop being estimated at 20,000,000 bu short of last year, or the direct reverse of recent reports. Paris was ¼@½c higher, Antwerp ⅝c off, Berlin ⅜c down, and Budapest ¼c higher.

World's available stocks increased 5,855,000 bu, against an increase a year ago of 898,000 bu. The European visible showed a fair gain for the week. Generally foreign crop conditions were favorable. Receipts here were 83 cars, with 87 cars for today. Primary arrivals were 1,094,000 bu, compared to 842,000 bu a year ago.

Minneapolis Mills Close Down.

Weather condition northwest were favorable, but unsettled conditions are again predicted. Minneapolis reported four of the mills closed down on account of the lack of shipping directions. Stocks there increased 400,000 bu for three days. Canadian reports were to the effect that much of the wheat put afloat on the lakes was still unsold. Northwest receipts were 732 cars, against 481 cars a year ago. Winnipeg had 610 cars, against 724 cars a year ago. The local milling trade was quiet. Clearances for the day were 369,000 bu wheat and flour.

Buying on the break was headed by Armour, Bartlett-Frazier, Wagner, and Knight-McDougal. Early there was free selling by local traders, including Rankin, who sold May, and by Bartlett-Frazier, Slaughter, and commission houses in general.

Corn Rallies Near Close.

December corn was again under pressure early, but all months firmed up near the close, which was ⅛@¼c to ½c higher than the previous day. More unfavorable weather is expected, and this, with covering by shorts, caused the rally. Bartlett-Frazier were credited with buying a little May, and there was buying by commission houses. Cutten and Comstock were also buyers. Selling was quite general early.

Cables were weak and ⅝d lower, due to the increased pressure to sell American corn and more liberal offerings from the Danube. Cash sales here were reported light. Southwestern markets for cash corn were easy. Receipts west were 589,000 bu, against 542,000 bu a year ago. Local arrivals were 281 cars, with 258 cars expected today.

Oats Trade Is Quiet.

Trade in oats was quiet, but there was a firm undertone and prices finished 1-16c lower to ⅛@⅜c higher. The cash demand was slow, with prices ¼@½c off and sales of 80,000 bu. Receipts here were 204 cars, with 180 cars for today. In the west receipts were 525,000 bu, against 785,000 bu a year ago. Armour was a fair seller of December, and Bartlett-Frazier were buyers of the May.

Weak Tone in Hog Products.

Provisions were influenced by the continued heavy receipts of hogs here and in the west and closed lower except for ribs, which were unchanged. Armour brokers were credited with buying early, but other packers were on the selling side. Cash trade is reported moderate. Receipts were 26,000 here, with 33,000 expected today. Western arrivals were large at 105,800, against 66,800 a year ago. Receipts of product here were 37 cars, with 73 cars shipped out.

GARY BANKS NOW MERGED.

State Institution and Trust Concern Unite with Assets of $250,000.

With the merger of the Security State bank and the Gary Trust and Savings bank yesterday the Knoos brothers complete their careers as Lake county bankers. The Security State secures control of the trust concern by a purchase of the controlling stock. The new arrangement will give the bank assets of $250,000. A. F. Knoos, vice president, and H. D. Davis, secretary, resigned in the afternoon. M. E. Bogarte, head of the Security bank, was elected president of the merged institution and J. B. Greene was named secretary and treasurer. The banks were capitalized for $25,000 each.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

Corn traders look for comparatively narrow markets for a time until it is known whether the new corn will move freely or not. The majority of the cash receivers expect a liberal run if the weather conditions are favorable. In many sections feeding operations will be light, farmers, who usually feed cattle, limiting their operations this year owing to the high prices for corn. As a result the opinion is quite general the early movement from the farms will be heavy.

James A. Patten, who has sold out a big line of December corn the last few days, stated yesterday he believed the trade would be surprised at the big demand that would develop for the new corn. He believes the east will be a big buyer and that there will be a heavy export business. He is also of the opinion that there is not much old corn back and that trend of values will be determined the next few weeks by weather conditions. Nebraska grain men predict a liberal run of corn from that state. There were rumors of a big lot of new corn sold for export yesterday at the seaboard, but it could not be confirmed, most brokers claiming there were no bids near a working basis.

Cash wheat sales yesterday were the largest since wheat advanced over the dollar level for December, mills taking 250,000 bu No. 2 red and 250,000 bu No. 2 hard. Total sales were 515,000 bu. The increased sales did not have much effect on the speculative market early, although the hedges against the December were bought in. Relatively, cash prices here were extremely strong, No. 2 red on track being quoted ⅝@1½c over the December and No. 2 hard 4½@8½c over. In the southwest the tone of the cash markets was a little easier. Minneapolis reported a good demand for the top grades. Winnipeg said the demand was moderate.

◆

William Burke, the well known grain man of Friend, Neb., was a visitor on 'change yesterday. He expects a generous movement of new corn, and thinks present prices are high. He stated that Minneapolis and the northwest continues to take the best part of the wheat offerings both at Omaha and from country points direct.

◆

Minneapolis reports were to the effect that four of the flour mills there had closed down on account of lack of shipping directions. Other mills were running full time. Local millers reported trade quiet.

◆

Cash corn was ⅛c to 1¼c lower and oats ¼c to ½c off. Shipping sales were 150,000 bu corn and 80,000 bu oats. Country offerings were small.

◆

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were steady at ¼c lower; corn, ½c higher to 1c lower; oats, ¼c lower to ¼c higher; rye, unchanged.

◆

Estimated receipts for today: Wheat, 87 cars; corn, 258 cars; oats, 180 cars; rye, 9 cars; barley, 82 cars; hogs, 33,000 head.

◆

Directors of the board of trade yesterday bid $2,200 for one membership.

◆

Minneapolis stocks of wheat increased 400,000 bu for three days.

ROADS ATTACK 2 CENT LAWS; USE JUDGE SANBORN'S RULING.

Eastern Lines Will Contest Statutes in Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio—Rely on Minnesota Rate Case.

The precedent established by Judge Sanborn of the federal Circuit court at St. Paul in declaring unconstitutional the Minnesota 2 cent fare law is to be used by the eastern railroads in an effort to contest the validity of the state fare laws in Illinois, Ohio, and Indiana. The various state commissions and governors are now seeking to have the decree overruled by the Supreme court.

Judge Sanborn's decision held that the Minnesota law reducing passenger fares within the state was unconstitutional as interfering with interstate rates not subject to the regulation of the state.

One of the main reasons assigned was that rates to points on or near the state line forced a reduction in the rates beyond because passengers could purchase tickets for the intrastate portion of their journey and then purchase other tickets at the state line.

In the Central Passenger association territory the same condition exists. The interstate rates are on a basis of 2½ cents a mile, while local rates in Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois are 2 cents a mile. A legal committee representing the Central Passenger association lines has asked all the roads in the association to furnish the committee with as many instances of this kind as possible by Nov. 1, to be used as evidence in the contemplated court proceedings.

The commission, without pronouncing as to the reasonableness of either the 2 cent or 2½ cent rates, postponed the case until next May, in order to give the roads an opportunity to test the 2 cent laws in the courts.

In preparing their data the roads will make compilations of their rates as in existence for two months prior to the passage of the laws and for two months after the passage of the laws.

RECEIVER FOR WOOLEN MILLS.

Creditors of $200,000 Corporation Will Bring Ancillary Proceedings in Other Cities.

Judge K. M. Landis in the United States District court yesterday appointed the Central Trust company of Illinois receiver for the United Woolen Mills, a $200,000 corporation, upon the application of creditors.

The corporation operates eighteen stores throughout the middle west. Julius N. Heldman, counsel for the creditors, said last night he would bring ancillary proceedings in several cities today. The creditors represent claims amounting to a little more than $10,500, but Heldman asserts he has other clients with larger claims.

The concern has its principal office in room 502, 606 South Michigan avenue. It operates stores at 320 South State street, 6300 South Halsted street, and 606 West North avenue. Leo S. Mossler is president.

HUNDRED CITIES AND TOWNS IN LEAGUE TO BOOST IOWA.

Commercial Clubs Join Hands to Encourage Home Industries and Attract Manufacturers.

More than 100 cities and towns in Iowa have united in organizing the Iowa League of Commercial Clubs, the object of which is the industrial development of the state of Iowa. Charles McLain of Dubuque, Ia., has been elected president and H. E. Stout of Des Moines secretary and treasurer.

The objects of the league are set forth by Woodworth Clum, secretary of the Greater Davenport committee.

"Eighty-five per cent of all the manufactured articles used in Iowa are made outside of the state," said Mr. Clum. "The object of this league is to acquaint every citizen of Iowa with just what goods are manufactured in the state and to induce retail merchants to give preference to articles made in Iowa.

"Wt also expect to attract outside manufacturing interests to Iowa. We are encouraging the organization of commercial clubs in every city. A state publicity bureau will be conducted to acquaint the American public with Iowa's advantages and possibilities."

In order to carry the campaign into counties where there are no large towns, the league has divided the state into thirty-one separate districts, each in charge of a committee.

LIABILITY LAW DRAFT FINISHED

Federal Commission Agrees on Basis of Bill to Present to Congress.

SETS A PUBLIC HEARING.

Suggestions from Any Persons Interested Will Be Received on Nov. 6.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—The employers' liability and workmen's compensation commission today reached an agreement on the basis of legislation to be recommended to congress and adjourned until Monday, Nov. 6, when it will meet here for the purpose of hearing suggestions from persons interested in the proposed legislation. The findings of the commission are not final, but they are not likely to be changed materially.

Senator Sutherland, chairman of the commission, outlined the proposed law as follows:

"The law provides for payment of compensation by interstate carriers engaged in interstate transportation to employés injured by accident while engaged in such transportation, except in case of willful misconduct to be hereafter specified.

"The compensation is to be paid by the employer directly, and not out of a general fund created by any form of taxation. The payment will be compulsory, and not subject to election by either employer or employé.

Must Pay Physicians' Fees.

"The law will apply to all accidents resulting to the employé while in the course of his employment except those where the disability continues for a period of two weeks or less; the employer, however, must furnish medical and surgical assistance to an amount not exceeding $200.

"Payments of compensation under the law shall be made periodically and not in lump sums, with, however, appropriate provision for commutation at any time after the lapse of six months on the application of either party.

"The amount of payments will be limited to a minimum and maximum sum and will not continue beyond a specified term of years, to be hereafter fixed. The question as to whether or not this limitation shall apply to permanent total disability is left open.

"The amount of all payments will be based upon a percentage of the wages received by the injured employé at the time of his injury, to be hereafter fixed.

Provision Made for Dependents.

"All claims arising under the law shall be nonassignable and exempt from levy.

"In case of death payments shall be made to dependents, including alien dependents.

"All claims under the law are to be made preferred lien.

"Whenever any railway company and its employés have agreed or shall hereafter agree upon a plan of compensation which is as favorable to the employés as the provisions of this law, such plan may be substituted for the law, provided, that wherever in such plan the employés contribute to the compensation fund, the plan shall contain beneficial provisions in addition to the schedule of payments equivalent to such contribution.

"The character and extent of the administrative features of the law have been left open for future determination, and the commission will invite suggestions with reference thereto, as well as suggestions respecting the details of the law, to be made at the public hearings to be hereafter held."

NATIONS LOOK TO AMERICA FOR AID IN MINE PROBLEMS.

Delegates to National Congress Say Country Has Great Opportunity to Develop Safety Regulations.

Foreign delegates to the American mining congress at the Hotel La Salle said yesterday their countries are looking to the United States for the solution of many problems in mining. Dr. H. H. Stock, professor of mining engineering at the University of Illinois, delivered the address of welcome for Gov. Deneen. Charles M. Moderwell, chairman of the local executive committee, opened the meeting, then John Dern of Salt Lake City, president of the congress, took charge.

Prof. Stock urged coöperation in obtaining uniformity of mining laws among competing states and in instituting a campaign of education for the public, bringing it to a closer appreciation of the difficulties under which mine operators are working and the results they are accomplishing.

Horace Nugent, British consul to Chicago, said he would transmit a full report of the convention to the English government in full confidence that it will prove of benefit to his nation. M. Jean De Pulligny, commissioner of the board of public works of the French republic and director of the French mission of engineers to the United States, said America has wonderful opportunities to develop safety laws and appliances for mines.

Frederick W. Harnwell, Bolivian consul, said the greater part of Bolivia's wealth is in its mining industries, and that Bolivia looks to America for enlightenment along these lines.

Friday the congress will be addressed by Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior, and John Hays Hammond. Saturday President Taft will speak at Orchestra hall to the delegates.

RENEWS LUMBER TRUST WAR.

Government's Fifth Suit to Break Up the Combine Begins in St. Paul, Minn.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 24.—The government's fifth suit in its fight to break up the lumber trust was begun in the United States court today. It is directed against the following:

Northwestern Lumberman's association.

Lumber Secretaries Bureau of Information, an Illinois corporation already under fire in another suit against the "trust" brought in Colorado.

Luke W. Boyce, owner of a private detective agency at Minneapolis, Minn., who is charged with spying upon independent lumber dealers who are said to have violated the trade "ethics" laid down by the alleged trust.

The Lumberman Publishing company, a Minnesota corporation, publishers of a trade journal which the government charges has been the organ of the "trust" in that section.

The government alleges that the lumber trust has been unreasonably restrained by illegal agreements and understandings which prevent the consumer from buying of whom and where he will, which forbid competition for trade, and which have divided the country into noncompetitive territories. It is alleged that names of lumbermen who have violated the "ethics" have been published to the trade in the Mississippi Valley Lumberman.

MONEY WAS USED PROPERLY.

Attorney for Accused in Carnegie Trust Case to Submit Statement Today.

New York, Oct. 24.—After William J. Cummins had listened to the examination of two more witnesses in his trial on the charge of grand larceny in connection with the defunct Carnegie Trust company, his attorney sprang a surprise today, announcing that he would submit a statement tomorrow showing where the $140,000 Cummins is accused of stealing went, and that it was used legitimately.

Cummins' attorney declared that his statement would contain a list of 2,500 shares of Carnegie Trust stock purchased by Cummins with the money.

"We propose to show," he said, "where every share of this went and that it went into various banks to protect loans of the Van Norden Trust company and the Nineteenth Ward bank. Then by examining this list and proving it, the district attorney will know that all this stock was held by M. J. Lyman (Cummins' secretary) as trustee."

ACQUIRES 23 LOTS FOR FACTORY SITE

Foundry Company Buys Tract at Kedzie Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street.

STEEL BALL LAND SOLD.

Property Originally Occupied by Stensland Project Goes to Iron Concern.

The Chicago Steel Foundry company, by David Evans, president, has purchased from Joseph Donnersberger and Calvin B. Beach a tract of twenty-three lots at the southwest corner of Kedzie avenue and Thirty-seventh street, a nominal consideration being given.

The tract is 226x298 feet, east front, running from Thirty-seventh place to Thirty-seventh street and from Kedzie avenue to the Chicago and Alton right of way. The company will improve with a one story foundry building with ground dimensions of 200x150 feet, and a two story office building and pattern shop. The two buildings, which were designed by Raeder & Wood, architects, will cost about $50,000.

West Side Factory Site Sold.

Another interesting deal in factory property closed and made a matter of record is the purchase by the Chicago Iron Foundry company of Illinois from the Precision Appliance company, a New Jersey corporation, of the property at the southeast corner of Austin and Claremont avenues.

The lot is 121x125 feet and is improved with a two story brick building which the purchasing company will enlarge. The consideration named in the deed is $15,000. The property originally was owned and occupied by the Steel Ball company, a corporation promoted by Paul O. Stensland, and was shut down following Stensland's financial trouble. It subsequently passed into the hands of Cobe & McKinnon.

Deals in North Side Houses.

Charles W. Moore has sold to Oscar Heineman the residence property on Sheridan road, 304 feet south of Granville avenue, on the west side of the street, for $30,000. It has an incumbrance of $7,500. The lot is 50x150 feet and the dwelling is a two story plaster structure.

Another noteworthy deal in north side residence property is the sale by Stephen S. Gregory, president of the American Bar association, to G. Arthur Buhl, of G. A. Buhl & Co., of the property at 539 Stratford place, just west of the Lake Shore drive. The lot fronts 75 feet, with a depth of 140 feet, and is improved with a two story twelve room dwelling. The deal was negotiated by Paul Steinbrecher & Co. The consideration was withheld, but it is understood the property was held at $17,500.

Sells Apartment Building.

The apartment house property, with 51.6x120 feet of ground, at the northeast corner of Haddon and Campbell avenues, has been sold by Bernhard Loeff to Esther Simon for $30,000, subject to an incumbrance of $15,000.

George F. Walsh sold to Julius Heidecke the apartment house property in Colorado avenue, 95 feet west of Millard avenue, with 50x150 feet of ground, northwest front, for $25,000, subject to an incumbrance of $12,000.

Heidecke subsequently conveyed it to Eliza W. Armstrong for the same consideration, while Mrs. Armstrong conveyed in part payment the property at the northeast corner of Flournoy street and Springfield avenue, 40x94 feet, south front, valued at $14,000.

Loans Secured by Real Estate.

Dr. W. E. J. Michelet has purchased from S. Dethman the store and flat building on Evanston avenue, 150 feet south of Catalpa avenue, with lot 50x150 feet, west front. A nominal consideration is given. The real estate department of the Edgewater bank negotiated the deal.

Edgar M. Snow & Co. have made a loan of $50,000 five years at 5 per cent, secured by 87x100 feet at the southeast corner of West Huron and North Franklin streets, improved with a six story and basement building belonging to the A. Bauer Construction company.

The same firm has made a loan of $50,000, five years at 5 per cent, secured by 120x124 feet at the northwest corner of Madison street and Ashland boulevard, improved with a six story and basement brick building.

Conran Apartments as Security.

A loan has been made of $20,000, five years, at 5½ per cent, on the 128x117 feet at the southeast corner of State and Twenty-sixth street, improved with two story brick store.

The Chicago Title and Trust company is trustee in a loan of $45,000, five years, at 6 per cent, to Thomas Conran, secured by the Conran apartment building and 100x144 feet of ground at the southeast corner of Magnolia and Sunnyside avenues. Mr. Conran gave two other trust deeds to Wyllys W. Baird to secure loans of $15,000 and $14,500, at 5½ per cent, flat building loans.

To Protect Residence Districts.

Ald. Beilfuss in his address at yesterday's weekly luncheon of the Cook county real estate board said he would introduce an ordinance to protect residence districts from business invasion. He said he did not object to business going into semi-business districts, but to the needless invasion of high class residence districts. He also spoke of the need of the establishment of building lines and gave some interesting data concerning small parks.

BUSINESS, COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL SECTION

MONEY RATES OFF; DEMANDS LACKING

Chicago Sentiment Follows New York; Banks Anticipate Drop to 4 Per Cent.

FOREIGN WAR SCARE LAID

Moroccan Situation Passes; France Renews German Loans; U. S. Feels Competition.

Following the trend of money rates in New York, sentiment is growing easier in Chicago. The local national banks try, as a rule, to hold to a minimum of 4½ per cent. There is evidence, though, that a lower rate than this must be made in competition with New York, where the same class of commercial paper is being taken by the banks at 4 per cent. The local trust companies make some loans at 4 per cent. At present the ease in the situation is in large part that of anticipation.

The situation in New York and Chicago develops from falling off in the usual fall money demand. This has not been what was expected, and general conditions have grown so much steadier that the eastern banks are beginning to put out their funds at the best obtainable rate.

As evidence of the liquidity of the money markets of Europe and this country, New York has been influenced not only by a smaller demand than expected at home, but by the passing of the war scare in England, Germany, and France over the Moroccan situation.

European War Scare Passes.

The French bankers who began withdrawing loans from Germany when the Moroccan affair took a serious turn and whose action caused runs on provincial German banks, have begun to relend their money in Germany. This means that when the loans made to Germany by this country fall due they will be repaid and New York is likely to have much more money than at the present time. The New York bankers went to the relief of German borrowers when the French bankers withdrew, and now that the latter are again extending accommodation to Germany there will be no occasion to renew the loans negotiated in this country.

Chicago banks report the country bank demand to be in fair volume, but hardly up to the past because of the dullness in business which enables country banks to more easily take care of the crop demand. Their mercantile borrowers are not pressing for accommodation, so that in turn the country institutions have plenty of funds.

Merger Talks Helps Bonds.

Chicago Railways first mortgage 5 per cent bonds again touched par on the local exchange. Several months ago the bonds rose to this price and then receded fractionally. The advance yesterday was credited to the opening of merger negotiations with the city council. The bonds were well bought. The B bonds were also firm, advancing on transactions of $31,000 from 88¼@88⅝. Chicago Elevated railways 5 per cent notes were quoted at 97⅞.

Chicago Railways stocks were also influenced by the announcements of the morning. Series 1 certificates advanced to 96½. Series 2 certificates rose up to 32¾. Commonwealth-Edison stock was as firm at 128⅝. There was not much doing.

American Radiator common again sold at 300. McCrum-Howell preferred was in improved demand at 90⅝, advancing from 90½. There was a fair volume of trading in Sears-Roebuck common. The price was irregular and the close fractionally above the opening. There was some trading in Chicago Subway at 1¼.

Leather Company's Earnings.

The American Hide and Leather company has issued its report for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1911. It follows:

Net earnings from operations after charging replacements and renewals and interest on loans	$167,029
Int. on bonds in hands of public	90,810
Sinking fund approp. at par	37,500
Int. on bonds in sinking fund	37,065
Total disbursements	$165,373
Surplus for quarter	1,654

Net current assets are now $8,603,873.

The company says: "In issuing these statements attention is drawn to the fact that the leather business, as is well known, is subject to wide fluctuations, and that the effects of such fluctuations is naturally liable to be more pronounced in quarterly statements than in statements covering a more extended period."

Cotton Oil's Poor Year.

It is announced that the annual report of the American Cotton Oil company probably will be the poorest in the company's history. The fiscal year ended on Aug. 31. Nothing was earned on the common stock and not quite the full preferred dividend requirements.

The general result was due to the fact that the price of cottonseed was exceedingly high, obliging the company to buy its raw material on most disadvantageous terms. Following this the price of oil slumped.

The company derives a large proportion of its earnings from the manufacture of soap and other trade mark articles. The principal ingredient entering into these products is cotton oil, although considerable lard is used. At the beginning of the year lard prices were 14c a pound, compared with a normal of 8c. Then, after the company had laid in a supply of lard, trade conditions were such that it was obliged to sell its soaps and oils at declining prices.

The current fiscal year promises to be much better. The company has accumulated a great quantity of seed at low prices.

American Cotton Oil common was a weak feature of the New York exchange. It declined to 44.

Norfolk and Western Common.

Directors of the Norfolk and Western railway are scheduled to meet tomorrow, when action may be taken on the common stock dividend. Rumors were current yesterday that the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which controls the road, would shortly lease the property, guaranteeing 6 per cent on the common stock. This report, however, was denied in authoritative quarters.

Ingersoll-Rand Profits Off.

It is announced that the Ingersoll-Rand company's report for the six months ended June 30, 1911, indicate the amount available for dividends on the common stock will approximate 10.16 per cent for the year. This compares with 28.06 per cent available for the common in 1910, 3.88 in 1909, 3.33 per cent in 1908, and 32.29 per cent in 1907.

Dividend Declared.

Butte Coalition declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25c a share, payable Dec. 1. Books close Nov. 15.

General Financial News.

The New York subtreasury gained $1,613,000 from the banks on Monday and since last Friday gained $3,157,000.

Directors of the Western Maryland Railway company met in New York yesterday and organized by electing the former officers.

Competition in the wire trade has resulted in another reduction of $1.00 a ton in all products, bringing wire nails and barbed wire down to 1.6c and plain wire down to 1.4c. It is announced the American Steel and Wire company is meeting competition on this basis.

IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The industrial group of stocks was strong on the local exchange today, Edison advancing 2½, Swift ½ and Massachusetts Gas ⅝. Rails were firm but inactive. Western Telephone common and preferred continued active at the high levels established yesterday. Copper stocks ruled generally strong, with Greene-Cananea particularly in demand at an advance of ⅜ on reports that dividends are to be begun. Call money, 2¼@6 per cent; time loans, short dates, 3¾@4 per cent; time loans, six months, 4¼@4½ per cent; time loans, year, 4¼@4½ per cent.

MARKET DRIFTS; MOVEMENTS FEW

Some Life Infused by Bulge in Norfolk and Western on Exchange.

MORE GOLD EXPORTS SOON

Applications at New York for Both Private and Public Loans Abroad.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Not enough interest was taken in today's stock market to maintain even the moderate degree of activity which has recently prevailed, and except for a few special movements the changes in prices were negligible. United States Steel, as the leader in point of activity, was superseded by Reading, but the trading in both of these stocks combined fell much short of the operations in United States Steel alone on many recent days.

Some little life was infused into the market by a substantial forward movement in Norfolk and Western and by some other exceptional fluctuations, but these were not sufficient to redeem the list as a whole from the dullness into which floor traders and all others seemed willing to allow the market to drift.

With little in the affairs of the stock exchange itself to attract attention, the monetary situation again came in for interested discussion, particularly in view of the increased probability, as a result of today's money movements, that gold will be shipped from New York to supply a further contribution to the foreign requirements which have been reflected in the applications addressed to this market from abroad for private and public loans.

May Send Gold to Argentine.

The position of the exchange market suggests that any direct shipments of gold to Europe will be to Paris rather than to London, but shipments may be made to Argentina for London account. This was indicated today by inquiries received by New York banks from their London correspondents inquiring the terms upon which New York could send gold to the South American republic.

Despite the placing here of an issue of Prussian treasury bills at a relatively high rate of interest, there was some indication today of a further easing in the condition which led up to the large Berlin borrowing in this market at the end of September. This came in the shape of the paying off of some loans by Berlin, but the exchange thus supplied was readily absorbed in connection with the requirements growing out of the New York purchase of the Prussian issue and other operations involving transmittal of funds from this side. Sterling exchange advanced to the highest rate of the year and francs were quoted not far from the point at which gold would flow to Paris.

This position of the foreign exchanges indicates clearly the preponderance of the outward flow of funds from this market, but there are many cross movements contributing to the money currents.

Paying Off Loans in Paris.

The seizing of the opportunity which the foreign money markets offer for profitable employment of funds not needed at home is not the only factor in the present outward movement, for while we have been lending to Berlin and to London and have been accumulating bills drawn on the foreign markets we have been paying off some loans of our own previously obtained in the Paris market.

Thus on Oct. 31 matures an issue of $30,000,000 Michigan Central one year notes. These are not to be renewed, it is understood, and the recent accumulation of French exchange to provide for this payment is one of the factors which have contributed to the advance in rates which again brings this market to the verge of gold exports.

The ultimate effect of the present movement will be to establish a condition of relative equilibrium between our own and the foreign markets, and some bankers are of the opinion that this point is not far distant. It might be hastened by such an incident as the now speedily expected official settlement of the Moroccan question, which might, in turn, ease the money situation in France.

The continued recuperation of the Berlin market from the stress to which it was subjected at the end of September will contribute to the same effect.

A hardening of money rates here at home would from another direction cause a halt in the outward movement from this market, but there is no present indication of higher rates here except to the extent which our rates may be influenced by investments in foreign bills in one shape or another. What is still lacking is the indication of an expansion in business which would call home the funds which we have been so freely putting at the service of foreign markets.

Money on call steady, 2@2½ per cent; ruling rate, 2⅜; closing bid, 2⅜; offered at 2½. Time loans steady, 60 days, 3¼@3½ per cent and 90 days 3¾; six months, 3¾@4. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4½@4¾ per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8370 for 60 day bills and at 4.8690 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.83. Bar silver, 54⅛c. Mexican dollars, 45c. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds steady.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Money was in increased demand today. Discount rates were quiet. Traders on the stock exchange were principally occupied with the mining carry-over, and the markets were quiet. Consols gained 3-16, but kaffirs were weak on Paris selling, and home rails and Chinese bonds declined on realizing. American securities opened quiet and steady and during the forenoon advanced on light covering.

HOGS SLUMP; MANY UNSOLD

Market Continues Downward Slide; Average Price $6.35.

CATTLE DEMAND DECLINES.

Killers Expect Good Midweek Supply; Holders Refuse to Sell Good Beeves.

Hog market at Chicago yesterday continued the downward slide started late Monday, opening at a decline of 15c and closing 15@20c lower than at the high time the foregoing session. An extreme top of $6.60 was attained, but packers made up their droves at an average cost of $6.35, against $6.45 on Monday. Quality was poor and many hogs were carried over unsold, although offered at the full decline on closing rounds.

Expectations of a big midweek supply put a crimp in the demand for beef cattle, and holders found it almost impossible to move native steers. Good beeves were carried over without being shown on the market, and inferior grades were sacrificed at a further decline of 10c, tops reaching $6.25. Best range steers were steady, with some prime Montanas at $7.40. Calves were 75c@$1.00 lower than a week ago, with fancy vealers at $8.25@8.50.

Sheep and lamb receipts were excessive, and the quality was inferior. Packers took hold slowly, and the market closed in a congested condition at a decline of 10@15c for the day. Range lambs topped at $6.10.

BUTTER TAKES ANOTHER RISE

Dealers Make Advance of Half a Cent; Active Demand.

FOLLOW UP ELGIN MOVE.

Eggs Remain Firm; Potato Mart Shows Buoyancy; Poultry Sells Steady.

Butter prices at Chicago yesterday were advanced ½@1c a pound, the maximum gain being shown by extra firsts and firsts in creamery. Receipts were 13,778 tubs, the largest of the week thus far, but the demand was active and the Monday advance at Elgin furnished an incentive for advancing values. Eggs were unchanged, with receipts of 4,536 cases.

A reduction of 1c a lb in the price of geese was the only change made in poultry quotations. Receipts were heavier than a week ago, but low prices led to a brisk speculative demand for chickens and the supply on sale was well taken.

Potato market continued to exhibit buoyancy at recently advanced prices and fresh receipts of 108 cars were closely taken. Trade in fruits and vegetables was moderately active, with prices showing few changes.

Ravenswood Manor

Ravenswood Gardens

THE GARDEN SPOT OF CHICAGO

Our Promises and Prophecies Fulfilled.

IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE THE DEVELOPMENT OF RAVENSWOOD MANOR AND RAVENSWOOD GARDENS IS THE MOST REMARKABLE THAT HAS EVER TAKEN PLACE IN THE CITY OF CHICAGO. THESE TWO PROPERTIES ADJOIN AND ARE BEING DEVELOPED AS ONE. THERE ARE SIXTY-FIVE ONE AND TWO FAMILY HOUSES COMPLETED AND IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION. FIFTY-FOUR OF THEM HAVE BEEN BUILT BY OUR CUSTOMERS, WHO PUT THEIR OWN MONEY AND THEIR OWN INDIVIDUALITY INTO THEIR HOMES. WE BUILT THE OTHER ELEVEN AS STARTERS.

Our plans call for an expenditure of over $800,000 in street improvements alone, and before the snow flies this winter nearly three-fourths of the entire work will have been completed. If there's one more thing necessary to convince the doubter, who thought we could not make good, that is a visit to the property. If the miles of beautifully kept parkways, magnificent gateways, and the surrounding air of prosperity do not win him to us, his case is chronic.

What has been done by us is a revelation. About two years ago our "Garden Spot" was a grass grown field, where there are now miles of well paved and well kept streets and scores of homes occupied by their owners. No place in Chicago can be compared with it. In individuality and character it stands alone.

Excellent "L" and Trolley Service.

The transit facilities are the best. For the man doing business in the loop the elevated cars run on a five minute headway all day, with express trains during business hours. There is no better service in the city. There are two "L" stations on our property, one at Rockwell-st. and the other at Francisco-av.

The Western-av. trolley line is being extended to Lawrence-av. Western-av. is four short blocks east of our property. This new trolley service will give those doing business in the west and southwest industrial districts an opportunity that has long been closed to them—that of conveniently living in the Ravenswood section. The Lawrence-av. car line is being rehabilitated. The Lawrence-av. and Montrose-av. lines run through our property and transfer to all Clark-st. and Evanston-av. cars.

Restrictions That Restrict

We have placed restrictions on our property, setting aside one part for apartment construction and another for one family detached homes only. This means uniform development. In the one family section the effect of individual and artistic homes cannot be offset by the construction of apartment buildings. We have also limited business to certain streets.

For the man who wants a detached home in a restricted neighborhood he can find nothing better in the city of Chicago. The two family house we consider one of the best investments in the city, and we have an admirable section where apartments of this kind are permitted. On all residential lots there is a building set back which gives all streets a broad boulevard effect.

We Help You Get Your Home.

Our business is to help refined people of moderate means to get their own homes in a neighborhood that meets their own views of refined and well kept surroundings. It costs no more to build in our RESIDENCE PARK than it does to build elsewhere, and it may cost you less. Our property costs you no more than other property with less desirable surroundings, and we can show it costs a great deal less. Any man who wants his own home has need of us, if he has only $10 to make the start and a good steady position. Make the start—that's the main thing. Get a grip on one of our lots and share in the increased values that come with increased population.

Building Prizes.

Now is the time to select your property. First, because you can take advantage of our Ravenswood Gardens building prize offer if you start now and complete your home before May 1 next. Second, because you lose by delaying. If you can only realize this is the last large acreage property to be subdivided on any elevated road in the city you will appreciate the importance of deciding now, so as to get good property—the best—at first or original prices. Put it off and you will either pay the advanced prices later or be compelled to look for less desirable location. This is an alternative rapidly growing Chicago imposes upon you—on everybody.

A Special Offer.

We selected some of the best lots in the Ravenswood Gardens apartment section to advertise at $890 each, and we have just seven remaining. These we recommend over anything else for special value. Only seven left, and when they're gone they're gone forever.

You'll never get such a chance again. Go today and see our properties. Don't keep putting it off. You've done that too long already. Somebody keeps slipping in ahead of you all the time.

Ten Points of Superiority.

1. Last large property directly on the "L."
2. Concrete example of the City Beautiful Idea.
3. Superior improvements, under city regulation.
4. Maintenance fund for future care of streets and parkings.
5. Separate districts for one family houses, flats, business.
6. Free deed in case of death or money refunded, with 6 per cent interest.
7. One mile of restricted water frontage.
8. Uniformly restricted, beautified.
9. Convenient to Loop, Lake, and Lincoln Park.
10. Large enough to establish the character of its entire community.

City Improvements Free—Under City Regulation and Inspection.

Sewers with house service pipes; gas and water mains with service pipes; paved streets with combination curb and gutters and cement walks installed on all residential streets under city regulation and inspection. All residential streets marked from sidewalk to curb, embellished with flowering plants, shrubs, and shade trees. All city conveniences, schools, churches, and stores. Title guaranteed by CHICAGO TITLE AND TRUST COMPANY. Abstract and separate policy of insurance with each deed.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

To everybody who wants a good high-class piano, but doesn't want to put much money into it:

Why not step into the Bent store and reap the benefit of our last week's sales of player-pianos?

Some really splendid pianos have been turned in by customers who have just changed over to our Bent Angelus, Emerson Angelus, Crown Combinola, and other improved instruments. Most of these exchanged pianos have been used more or less—some very much less.

All that are offered below are in good condition—a great opportunity to get a high grade piano for much less than even a cheap instrument would cost you new. Come in and look and listen.

The Geo. P. Bent reputation for generous value and square treatment is your protection in the purchase of a used piano just as in buying a brand new one.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or income from other sources], who, while not in a position to borrow money from a bank, realize that exorbitant interest charged by professional money lenders is high and extortionate. I am connected with the Indiana Loan, Credit, and Trust Company of Chicago, co-partners, 4303 Grand-blvd., and, having private means of my own, I am willing to loan money with or without security and at a consideration but a trifle above bank rates, and never more than the interest legalized by the state of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the precise rate being determined by the amount loaned and risk assumed. My location [15 minutes from loop district via South Side elevated] assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where lenders congregate. Always best to telephone Drexel 54 for private appointment. Ask for MR. S.

They are made of diagonal wide wale cheviots, heavy serges, broadcloths, plushes, reversible blanket cloths and polo cloths. Novel effects in deep side fastenings distinguish the collection. One model shown.
